Butter Stocks Short As Price Going Up To 82c

With the wholesale price of butter taking a 19-cent jump overnight, from 63 to 82 cents per pound, Victorians will soon be paying 82 cents per pound for butter on their tables.

Say Mrs. Pitre Talked Suicide After Tragedy

QUEBEC (CP)—Defence witnesses said today that Mrs. Arthur Pitre, charged with murder in Quebec's airline time-bomb case, manifested fear and spoke of suicide following the air disaster that took 23 lives.

The 42-year-old woman is the third person charged with murder in the time-bombing of a Canadian Pacific Airlines plane Sept. 9, 1949.

J. Albert Guay, who organized the plot to kill his wife Rita, was hanged in January. Genereux Ruest, brother of Mrs. Pitre, was convicted of making a detonator for the time-bomb and sentenced to be hanged. Hearing of his appeal is slated for April.

Mrs. Pitre is charged with knowingly carrying the time-bomb in a parcel to the plane. She has admitted carrying a parcel for Guay to the plane but has said she thought it contained a statue.

The woman's husband said in her defence today that she had mentioned to him she had taken a statue to the airport for Guay.

said this morning. "The butter we have on order will sell at the new price."

Most wholesale distributors were looking at empty spaces in their warehouses that used to be filled with butter. Recent excessive buying by retailers and consumers depleted government-purchased stocks rapidly, they said.

Government stocks were acquired last summer when the market made its usual drop, and were bought at the 53-cent-a-pound support level.

Butter was still selling in Victoria stores today at 62 and 63 cents, but in the opinion of the trade it will be only a matter of days before it reaches at least 82 cents.

"The next butter which retailers buy will have to be sold at the higher price," one distributor said. "And you know how it is—as soon as one raises his prices they all will."

Margarine prices of from 42 to 48 cents per pound retail are expected to hold steady. Price has advanced from two to three cents per pound over the last six weeks.

ORDER WOMEN CUT TRESSSES

HONGKONG (UP)—Chinese Communists in Canton have ordered women to cut their hair because they waste too much time combing long tresses, a Chinese woman who returned from a visit to relatives in Canton said today.

RUSSIA ACCEPTS WESTERN GERMAN PEACE PACT PLAN

PARIS (Reuter)—Russia accepted at today's Big Four deputies' conference the Western version of a proposed agenda item dealing with the German peace treaty, it was learned tonight.

Andrei Gromyko of Russia accepted the proposed Western version of the agenda item dealing with a German peace treaty. This is the second item of the Western agenda which reads: "Re-establishment of German unity and conclusion of a peace treaty with Germany."

Gromyko also tabled redrafts of the first and third items of the Russian agenda.

Ambassador Phillip Jessup, the American representative, said he needed time to study the new wording.

EUROPE TERRIFIED BY EARTH TREMOR

Six-Second Quake Felt In Six Countries; Atom Blast Theory Not Entirely Dismissed

LONDON (AP)—Millions of persons in northern Europe were terrified today by a violent shuddering of the earth's crust which some thought might have been caused by an atomic-sized explosion inside eastern Germany.

The tremor, one of the most severe ever recorded in Germany, was followed in some sections by a giant blast of wind. The shock and wind rattled windows, shook down war ruins, and tossed pictures off the walls of many homes. No extensive damage was reported.

Seismologists speculated the epicentre was either in the Eifel Mountains of West Germany or in Thuringia, in the eastern zone of Soviet-occupied Germany.

The terrestrial convulsion, which lasted from five to six seconds with "echoes" of 15 minutes duration, was felt in varying degrees in a wide area including Belgium, Holland, northern and eastern France, Denmark and Sweden.

In New York Rev. Joseph Lynch, director of the Fordham University Observatory, said the estimated location of the centre definitely indicated an earthquake of the "resettlement" pattern common to certain areas.

Professor Friedrich Decker, director of the Bonn, Germany, Observatory, said the atomic explanation had not been entirely eliminated, but the western scientists trying to run down the origin and cause of the shock were handicapped for lack of definite information from behind the Iron Curtain.

Earth tremors are fairly frequent in the Eifel Mountains.

By telephone, Professor Friedrich Gerecke of the Soviet-controlled Earthquake Research Institute at Jena in East Germany said the quake was one of the "strangest" ever registered there. But he ruled out an explosion.

In Bonn, hundreds of persons telephoned newspaper offices to ask if there had been an atomic explosion.

Several war ruins in Cologne collapsed and many residents in nearby Leverkusen fled to an air raid shelter.

The quake was recorded in Germany as between 9.46 and 9.47 a.m. This corresponded roughly with the time recorded in Brussels.

Huge seas pounded the south coast of England and the coast of France during the night and today as ships raced for shelter during one of the wildest 24 hours of the European winter.

S. Koreans Sweep Into Capital

Other U.N. Troops Push Closer To 38th

TOKYO (CP)—South Korea changed hands for the fourth time in nine months today when South Korean troops swept unopposed into the battered ghost city and proudly raised their Republic's flag over the capital building.

The capture of the main political prize in Korea was part of the Allies' bloodless drive toward the 38th Parallel, which won at least 15 miles in the last 48 hours with hardly a Chinese or North Korean being sighted.

The Allied advance was general all along the front.

Apart from the re-entry into Seoul, the most spectacular advance was made on the central front by the American 1st Cavalry Division, which drove north of the key stronghold of Hongchon and reached a point 18 miles from the 38th parallel, meeting no resistance.

Thirty-six tanks spearheaded the 1st Cavalry thrust of four miles to a point north of Hongchon, which is 55 air miles east of Seoul.

The motorized cavalry made a bold crossing of the Hongchon River, just west of the town, to cut the road linking Hongchon with Chunchon, Red supply and assembly centre 15 miles to the northwest.

Other allied elements were standing on the outskirts of Hongchon. Some may have entered the city. The Communists are expected to make a stand in the hills somewhere north of Hongchon.

EXPECT NEW LINE

North of Seoul, it appeared that the Chinese had withdrawn in good order up to 25 miles, or to a line just south of the 38th parallel, where they were reported to have dug in on a powerful new defence line.

The fall of Seoul is the political climax of Gen. Matthew Ridgway's "limited objective" offensive which militarily was aimed at killing as many Communists as possible. Overwhelming air and artillery fire power backed the advancing United Nations troops.

An 8th Army spokesman tonight said South Korean patrols had crossed the Han River into Seoul in small fishing boats.

"I am very happy to be entering Seoul city again," said Gen. Paik Sun Yup, division commander.

New Reports Of Foreign Subs Off Canada's Coast

By JOSEPH B. MACSWEEN

HALIFAX (CP)—Vice-Admiral Harold T. W. Grant, chief of Canada's naval staff, said today there have been new unconfirmed reports of Russian submarines off the east coast since the navy conducted an intensive investigation of several sightings last summer.

The admiral also told a press conference here that an investigation into a sabotage attempt aboard the aircraft carrier Magnificent has been completed and "the incident is closed."

In Halifax for an inspection of naval installations and ships, the admiral gave few further details regarding either the "Maggie" inquiry or the submarine matter.

He said there had been a "very few" reports of Russian submarines and none had been confirmed.

In answer to questions, Admiral Grant said more Canadian ships will be recommissioned as men are trained. The Korean campaign now requires that five destroyers be kept in instant readiness although only three are actually in unfriendly waters.

Regarding some 30 decommissioned frigates at Sorel, Que., the admiral said the navy regards them as a reserve force to be brought into action in an emergency.

Admiral Grant said new ships being built under Canada's defence plans won't "begin coming off the line" until 1952.

Hospitals Oppose New Co-Insurance

The B.C. Hospitals' Association today protested to the provincial cabinet the introduction of co-insurance in the Hospital Insurance Service.

A delegation of three argued at a special meeting of the government ministers that the charging of from $2 to $3.50 a day for the first 10 days' stay in hospital would not bring substantial revenue over and above the cost of collections.

"Having to pay $3.50 for a night's lodging plus three meals and a day's rest is not likely to deter anyone from trying to be admitted for diagnostic purposes which results in saving the patient $10 to $25 or more for X-rays and laboratory services."

The delegation claimed that co-insurance would have a bad psychological effect on insured patients and on hospital personnel who would have to try and collect the charges. Some patients would be unable to pay, many would be so annoyed at the charges that they would try to avoid payment, and even those well able to pay would resent what will be regarded as "nuisance" charges.

"It will largely destroy one of the most desirable features of hospital insurance," the cabinet was told. "The financial barrier which causes many persons to put off going to hospital in the early stages of a serious illness will be back."

In addition to protests over the I.C. and A. Act, the labor men asked that increases in Workmen's Compensation Act payments be provided on an interim basis until the Sloan Report is handed down from an inquiry into legislation which started a year and a half ago.

The union representatives were given no promise that Mr. Cates will announce that the act will be opened during the current session of the House.

The delegation consisted of key men from the C.C.L., the T.L.C. and the Standard Railwaymen's Union.

Surprise Restrictions Go In Effect March 19

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Abbott announced today a tightening of federal consumer credit restrictions. The changes become effective next Monday, March 19. He told the Commons in a surprise announcement these further restrictive steps are being taken:

1. The minimum down payment for purchase of motor cars on the instalment plan is being boosted from one-third of the cash price to one-half.

2. For all other commodities, the minimum down payment will be increased to one-third from one-fifth of the cash price.

3. In all cases, the minimum down payment now will be not less than $10. Formerly, it was $5.

4. The minimum period of credit is being reduced to 12 months from 18 months and the minimum size of instalment payments is being increased to $10 a month—or $2.50 a week—from $5 a month, or $1.25 a week previously.

5. Under what is known in the trade as a revolving credit plan, the minimum initial down payment is being increased to $10 and wherever new purchases are made under existing credits the minimum monthly instalment is being increased to $10.

BOOKS NOT INCLUDED

Mr. Abbott said that, as a result of varied representations, the consumer-credit restrictions will not apply to the sale of books.

The regulations, similar to but much less severe than those in existence in the Second World War, were put into effect last October as a weapon in the government's fight against inflation.

Announcing today's tightening of the restrictions, Mr. Abbott noted that the Bank of Canada and the chartered banks recently had discussed means to restrain the inflationary expansion of bank credit. The chartered banks then took steps to halt expansion in that field.

Police Head Cleared

WELLAND, Ont. (CP)—The Welland police commission today cleared Police Chief Thomas Gee of charges of accepting bribes from bootleggers and ordered his reinstatement after a two-week suspension.

Sees Canada Defence As 5-Year Job

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Howe said today he believed it will take a full five years to meet present targets in the huge defence production job Canada has set for herself.

It was true Canada's $5,000,000,000 defence build-up envisaged a three-year program, he told the Senate's banking and commerce committee. But legislation setting up a Department of Defence production with wide powers for the stockpiling and production of defence materials should have a five-year life.

With the minister's explanation that the departmental staff should be "entitled to some permanency," and it would take two years to wind it up once its job was done, no change was made in the bill.

"If nothing happens," the minister said, "there would be no renewal of the powers. If we settle this Korean thing and have no fighting for two years I think we can consider the emergency over."

Mr. Howe, who said he was "in the running" for the post of Minister of Defence Production, noted that the bill gave the right to set up corporations for defence production. There had as yet been no need for this, "but if this thing gets tough we may need them."

Youths Hand Out Communist Bills To Theatre-Goers Entering Capitol

By JIM McKEACHIE

Those young Victorians—there are about a dozen active in the city at the present time—who are being exploited by Communist elements (whether they know it or not), are on another of their out-of-step marches. Latest project of the Victoria branch of the National Federation of Labor Youth—Enfly, it is commonly dubbed—is to hand out pamphlets asking theatre patrons to ban the Korean war film, "The Steel Helmet," now showing at the Capitol Theatre.

Police halted proceedings Monday night, but since there is no by-law which says pamphlets cannot be handed out peaceably, they went unmolested last night, and, it is reported, will be at their usual stations tonight.

Monday's police action drew a letter to City Council from Victoria College student Archie McCugan, 1519 Oakland Avenue, chairman of the local Enfly group.

McCugan is the young Scottish lad who denied he was an active member of Enfly last October when the Victoria Times ran a series of articles on the organization.

At that time, he wore an Enfly button. He had it on at college lectures today, and repeated the protest made to City Council—that the film "promotes racial hatred against Asiatic peoples, glorifies inhuman atrocities, and violates Brotherhood Week and the principles of the United Nations."

Enfly, incidentally, is the group which has been handing out those Toronto-printed leaflets screaming "Bring the Pats Back From Korea—No Conscript—Peace, Peace, Peace!"

Last fall it put out a yellow-colored leaflet which said: "No Canadian Lives for Yankee War in Korea."

The latest pamphlet asks citizens to write to the provincial censor of motion pictures and to the theatre manager, and protest the film.

Manager J. M. Robertson of the Capitol Theatre, said today the activities of those distributing the leaflets had not hurt attendance—in fact it might stimulate it.

It isn't all "teen-agers" even though it is a "teen-ager" pamphlet. Police last night took the names of the men distributing them. They were H. Keith Ralston, 1256 Acton Road, and Elgin Nelsh, 2409 Currie Road.

ONE WOMAN'S DAY

By NANCY HODGES

CATS AND CARTOONS

ON MY COMPARATIVELY rare visits to the movies—visits that are even rarer in these particular days—I have more than once chuckled at the antics of Mickey Mouse and laughed at the escapades of his more recent progeny that disport their mischievous ways through the animal cartoons.

And I have noticed that other members of the audience, grown-ups as well as youngsters, share my amusement as these cheeky little creatures of the cartoonists' concept ludicrously outwit their arch-enemy the cat or aggravate a dog to desperation, finally escaping the four-footed Nemesis with a flippant flick of a tail or a derisive paw applied to a be-whiskered nose.

CATTY COMPLAINT

HAVING LAUGHED at them so often, I confess I was surprised to see that Hollywood has been taken to task for producing such films. It seems that cat-lovers have been very much hurt and angered by these cartoons showing comic pictures of "malicious cats" being constantly outwitted by "lovable mice."

And the Empire Cat Club—a leading U.S. organization of cat breeders and exhibitors—demands that the film industry stop being unfair to cats by thus presenting them as malicious and associated with evil.

ADVERSE PICTURE

The formal protest goes on: "Since cats have a sense of humor and are frequently amusing, they do not deserve being made the butt of ill-treatment. Millions of children, and the public in general, are being given an adverse picture of cats."

I confess I laughed again at that picture of an offended "Tiddles," suffering from a solar plexus to her sense of humor at being outsmarted and ill-treated by a caricature of a mere mouse. For from what I know of today's well-fed cats, most of them wouldn't know a mouse if they saw one, and if they did, would be much too bored and blasé to give chase.

SADISTIC, PERHAPS?

THE EMPIRE CAT SOCIETY—incidentally, I am wondering if the Empire part of the title derives from the famous building in New York or from the geographical ramifications of the society's following—is evidently more concerned about the effect of ridicule upon the tender susceptibilities of its felines than it is of the effects of the films upon its audience.

Now, if it had adopted the attitude of the psychologists and protested on the score that the cartoons pandered to the sadistic streak which they claim we all possess, I might have understood their indignation. Because, call it sadistic or what you like, it is human nature to relish the discomfiture of a big bully by his little victim—whether four-footed or two—a fact of which the cartoonists are just as aware as the psychologists and on which they capitalize considerably.

INVITES IMITATION?

SOME PSYCHOLOGISTS would go even further and claim such gruesome, sadistic cartoons evoke in the tots who see them—and perhaps the adults, too—a "ven" to imitate the cruelty. That is what the opponents of the old nursery rhyme of "Three Blind Mice" claimed—but in that case it was the farmer's wife who was the brute and not the mouse.

All in all, it's just too bad that the supersensitive felines who make up the snooty and superior social roster of the Empire Cat Society should have their sleek fur ruffled by Mickey Mouse and other vermin of his impish ilk. But, if they could be interviewed, I think you would find all the "alley cats" snickering with catty glee and purring with malicious delight over the incident—and probably thinking, with me, that it savors very much of the mountain laboring and bringing forth a mouse.

NOT MATRIMONIAL

Fails In Bid For British Earldom Worth $1,500,000

LONDON (Reuter) — Toby Fitzwilliam, 62, son of a Victorian chorus girl and a Guards officer, has failed to prove his title to an earldom and the £500,000 ($1,500,000) that goes with it.

A judge decided today that his mother, former gaily girl Eva Raines, was not the legal wife of George—Charles—Fitzwilliam when Toby was born, and that therefore he is illegitimate.

Toby, whose full name is George James Wentworth Fitzwilliam, had tried to prove that his parents were married in 1886 under an old Scottish law which said a couple were legally wed if they merely lived together and declared themselves man and wife in the sight of God.

The judge said he had come to the conclusion that the association between Toby's parents before their church marriage in England after his birth was "illicit and not matrimonial."

Today's ruling means that Toby's younger brother Tom, who was born after the church wedding, remains heir-presumptive to the rich Fitzwilliam earldom and estate, held now by a childless cousin.

Bandit On Second Try Gets Fortune In Gems

NEW YORK (AP)—A dapper young bandit paid a second call on an exclusive Manhattan jewelry store Tuesday and looted it of a fortune in gems he overlooked in a robbery a month ago.

Police reported between $160,000 and $200,000 in jewelry taken from Schulberger, Inc., in today's holdup by a suede-gloved robber.

On Feb. 16 the store was robbed of $40,000 in gems. The holdup man left behind some $250,000 more in an open safe.

A store employee identified him as the same one today.

Four or five days after the first robbery, the jeweler reported to police, he received through the mail a package containing about 50 baguette diamonds worth $500 taken by the bandit.

No reason for return of the diamonds was suggested.

Much the same technique was used in both robberies. But last month the bandit arrived by appointment to inspect some jewels, lingered a while, and then whipped out a gun before scooping up a handful of loose diamonds and a bracelet.

The gunman did not linger today.

He pulled a gun as he entered the shop. Then he herded the Marchioness Florence De Montefierri, a customer, and employees into a backroom, and locked them in. He then forced a salesman to guide him to the jewels.

Alberta Legislature Balks At Gas Probe

Refuses To Have Commission Survey Any Effects Of Export On Economy

By CANADIAN PRESS

The Alberta Legislature refused Tuesday to have a commission investigate the effects of natural-gas export on the province's economy before any export permits are issued.

And while Liberal leader Harper Prowse said export of gas should not be allowed if it impaired Alberta's economy, Mines Minister N. E. Tanner opposed an economic survey and said a recent conservation board report took economic factors into consideration. The proposal was defeated 39 to 4.

All 10 provincial Legislatures held sessions Tuesday.

WOMEN ON JURIES

Lloyd Stinson (C.C.F.-Winnipeg South) introduced a bill in the Manitoba Legislature which would allow women to serve on juries in that province. Service would be optional, he said, remarking that British Columbia, Alberta and Saskatchewan already allowed women on juries and Ontario now has a similar bill before the Legislature.

A government bill to remove discrimination in race, religion or color from employment in Ontario was approved unanimously in principle in that province's Legislature.

In Quebec, the Legislative Assembly neared the end of its study of the Union Nationale Government's record $236,726,900 budget.

DEFICIT REVEALED

A current operating deficit of nearly $1,000,000 was revealed by information tabled in the Newfoundland Legislature in response to opposition questions.

Agriculture Minister C. C. Baker told the Prince Edward Island Legislature that he had pressed for a long-term policy on federal freight assistance on the movement of western feed grain to the east.

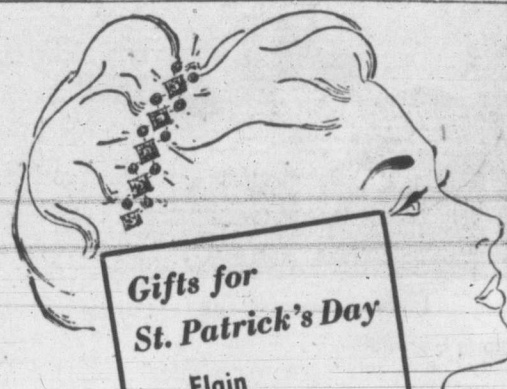

In Regina, Attorney-General J. W. Corman told the Legislature that the Saskatchewan Law Society is opposed to the C.C.F. Party. He spoke when moving adoption of the principle of a bill which would give the government complete control over selection of King's Counsel in the province. WOMAN ACCUSED OF HAVING 12 HUSBANDS—ADMITS TO JUST 4

PORTLAND, Me. (AP)—Police are checking today on the marital career of a woman, charged with bigamy, whose accuser said she had 12 husbands.

James S. Kneeland claimed Mrs. Aileen Gupitll married him at Calais in 1947 and Bernard Gupitll at Portsmouth, N.H., last December. He trotted out 10 other "marriages" for good measure.

Mrs. Gupitll said she was married only four times.

5 Jell-O Jewels
Thrifty enough for any day!

SPICED JELLIED PEACHES

Famous Jell-O economy makes this spicy salad easy on the budget, as well as a feast for the eyes.

¾ cup canned peach juice
¼ cup vinegar
½ cup sugar
12 cloves
1 stick cinnamon
12 canned peach halves
1 package Orange Jell-O (its flavor is pure fruit from real oranges)
6 maraschino cherries, diced

Combine peach juice, vinegar, sugar, spices; bring to boil. Add peaches. Simmer 10 minutes. Remove peaches, strain syrup; add hot water to make two cups. Dissolve Jell-O in hot liquid. Chill until slightly thickened. Add cherries. Arrange peaches in individual moulds. Cover with Jell-O mixture. Chill. 6 servings.

CHEESE CUBE

RELISH

The pure fruit flavor from real lemons makes this Lime Jell-O relish so tangy—delicious out of all proportion to the time and money it takes! Prepare 1 package Lime Jell-O. Add ½ teaspoon salt, 4 teaspoons vinegar. Chill. When slightly thickened, fold in 1 cup cheese, (cut in small cubes), ½ cup finely chopped sweet pickles. Half-fill individual moulds, and chill. 12 servings.

GRAPE ZIP

With fresh-tasting Jell-O, this delightfully zesty dessert is so good, yet exceptionally economical. Dissolve Lemon Jell-O in 1 cup hot water. Add 1 cup grape juice. Chill. When slightly thickened, set in bowl of ice water; beat with rotary beater until thick. Chill in dessert glasses. So tangy, so tasty—because the flavor of Lemon Jell-O is pure fruit from real lemons. 6 servings.

FROSTED JELL-O

A dessert that can't be equalled for results, with such speed and ease! Make it with any one of Jell-O's seven delicious "Jellied-in" flavors. Dissolve 1 package Jell-O (any flavor) in 1½ cups hot water. Chill. When slightly thickened, add 1 pint vanilla ice cream, cut in pieces. Beat with rotary beater until of whipped cream consistency. Chill. 6 servings. A delightfully different "surprise" dessert!

CHERRY JELL-O DELICIOUS

Prepare 1 package Cherry Jell-O. Turn into shallow pan. Chill. Cut into cubes; combine with 8 diced marshmallows, ½ cup diced canned pineapple or other fruit, ½ cup cream, whipped. Chill in dessert glasses. 8 to 10 servings that are tempting as all desserts are when made with Jell-O Jelly Powders.

JELL-O

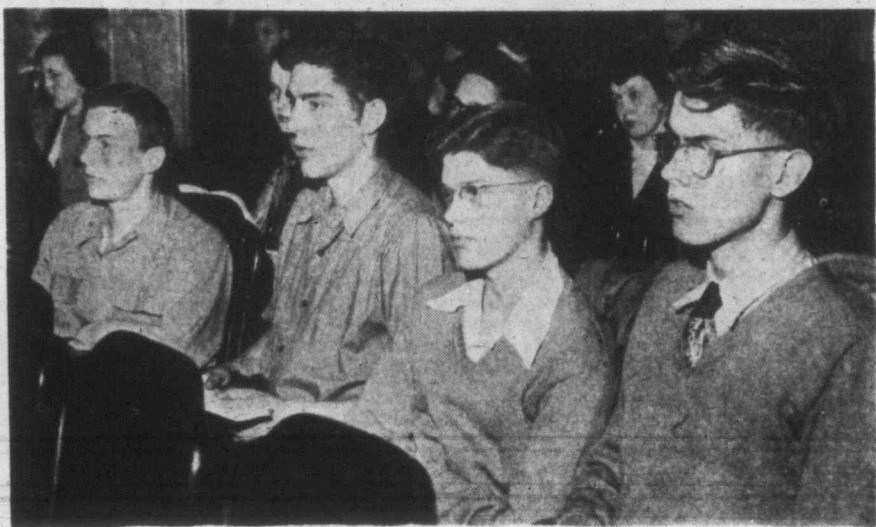

NO OTHER DESSERT CAN BE SERVED IN SO MANY WAYS!

Jell-O is a registered trade-mark, owned in Canada by General Foods, Limited.

Rabies Feared In Spokane As Four Dogs Die

SPOKANE (UP)—A city-wide quarantine of dogs was expected today following examinations of canines which died from rabies after biting children.

State veterinarians M. A. Holmes and M. O. Barnes completed the last of four examinations Tuesday night. They were to confer with city officials today and decide the course of action. The group was expected to call for the city-wide quarantine until the dread disease is cleared up.

At the same time, a check of veterinary hospitals was made to learn if possibly rabid dogs were sent to vets under the guise of other diseases.

Three children were under treatment today for bites from dogs. It was learned unofficially that the fourth dog tested Tuesday was rabid. Another dog in nearby Opportunity was found to have had rabies last October after tests by the Washington State College Veterinary Department.

IT'S SPINACH TO DIPLOMATS

LONDON (Reuter)—Italy's Premier de Gasperi and Foreign Minister Sforza were given spinach—"to keep their strength up since we have no beef," the caterers at a foreign office dinner explained.

"Spinach is . . . spinach," said De Gasperi. "I do like cauliflower," said Sforza. Foreign Minister Morrison said he liked creamed spinach. Other items on the menu: Soup, fish, chicken, salad and ice cream.

Stage Food Riots Against Reds As 200,000 Guerrillas Give Battle

By VICTOR KENDRICK

HONGKONG (UP)—Hungry farmers armed with hoes and scythes have seized arms stores and staged food riots in a revolt against Communist rule in South China, independent Chinese reports said today.

Gambler Tells Of Cash Hoard

NEW YORK (UP)—Gambler "Boss" Frank Costello, prompted by suggestions he might become subject to perjury charges, told Senate crime investigators today he had possibly $55,000 in cash in a strong box at his home.

The crime probes took an immediate interest in the strong box when it was mentioned in testimony involving a plan by which Costello and several others hoped to gain control of several British distilleries and the American distribution of their products.

Costello, reputed head of one of two nation-wide crime syndicates, suddenly became a reluctant and belligerent witness when he was asked about the present contents of the strong box.

Only after heated and prolonged discussion with his attorney George Wolf, did Costello agree to answer. "Forty . . . 50 . . . maybe $55,000," he said. "I'm not sure."

Failure To Renew Auto Licenses In 1951 Brings Fines

Seven persons appeared in city police court today on charges of failing to have 1951 license plates or driver's licenses. Five of them received fines totalling $125.

Caroline Shiers, 1337 Rockland, was fined $50 for failing to have either of the licenses. Fine of $25 was imposed against National Motors when one of the 70 employees took a car out of smuggling into the prison.

Magistrate Beevor-Potts in Nanaimo sentenced the boys to Oakalla Prison Farm after receiving assurance they would be transferred to the closed borstal where older men and youthful offenders are segregated.

The attorney-general's department said that the reason the two youths were not placed in the closed borstal was because they had appealed their sentence. They were kept in Oakalla Prison pending hearing of the appeal.

"Young offenders are segregated from the older prisoners and kept in a special prison unit," said an official of the department. "There they are given things to do and receive vocational training."

NOT GUILTY of contempt of Congress was the verdict in favor of Earl Browder, above, former head of the American Communist Party. Federal Judge F. D. Island Logging Camps Reopen

Rain and warmer weather have brought a sudden re-opening of island logging operations, closed down by the recent heavy snow and cold.

Full-scale logging has begun again at Bloedel, Stewart and Welch camps at Franklin River, Grand Central and Sarita River, a company official said. The Jordan River camp of the Western Forest Industries Ltd., closed by snow early in the New Year, is in operation again, as are Pioneer and Shelley logging camps at Port McNeil.

Lt. Col. L. Broome Adventurer, Dies In His 75th Year

A man who wrote a colorful life in various corners of the world was cremated Tuesday following a private funeral service in this city.

He was Lt. Col. Lewis Egerton Broome, 75, who died in Jubilee Hospital.

Son of Sir Frederick and Lady Broome, he was born in London, educated in England, and went as a youth to Australia, where his father was a lieutenant-governor.

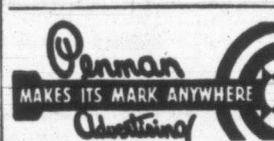

At 19, he left his parents to participate in the Australian gold rush, later joined the Yukon gold rush.

Before returning to England and enlisting in the Royal Engineers in the First World War he worked on the Panama Canal and lived in China.

WORLD-CIRCLING FLIGHT ATTEMPT
Following the war, Col. Broome attempted to fly around the world with Col. Stuart MacLaren. After its failure he came to live in Victoria to settle down.

He was an active member of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club.

He is survived by a son, John, editor of The Weekly Sketch in London, and a daughter, Joan, also in London.

10 More Pilots Qualify For Operation Chipmunk

R.C.A.F. recruiting office here today announced 10 more war-time pilots have been accepted for refresher flying training at Patricia Bay airport under "Operation Chipmunk."

Seven ex-flyers are currently taking the first ground school course. They wrote examinations in air regulations and airmanship at the Armories Tuesday night, and will complete 20 hours of classroom before starting 20 hours of flying.

The 10 latest names to be released are: J. L. Egger, D. D. Davies, H. G. John, E. S. Smith, G. A. Hack, N. J. Hill, A. C. S. Evans, J. H. Watson, T. McMartin and G. Dawson.

They will be enrolled in subsequent Chipmunk courses which are being handled for the air force by the Victoria Flying Club. The men likely will be broken into two groups.

On the first course now in progress are Jack S. N. Pindley, R. Ross MacKinnon, J. G. Soutar, John K. Saunders, John S. Tait, Leslie H. Bennetts and James G. McKeachie.

Injured Fisherman Flown To Seattle

SEATTLE (AP)—An injured Seattle fisherman was removed from his craft off the northern British Columbia coast by a Coast Guard plane Tuesday and flown here for treatment.

Hans Sorensen, 52, is believed to have suffered a neck injury when a loose jacket he was wearing caught in the propeller shaft of his vessel, Defiant. The craft was near Brooks Bay, near the northern tip of Vancouver Island, when the accident occurred.

Mr. Anscomb's Incredible Budget

THERE IS ONLY ONE WORD TO describe Mr. Anscomb's budget—it is incredible. When the nation needs every dollar it can get for defence, the British Columbia Government raises its expenditures from $105.5 millions to $118.2 millions—more than any province has ever spent, on a per capita basis, before. When an excessive demand for goods against available supply is causing a calamitous inflation, the Government increases its demand, in competition with the consumer, by 12 per cent in a single year.

The budget thus takes no account whatever of the nation's defence needs. It rejects out of hand the Federal Government's plea for reduced provincial spending. It is about as inflationary as its framers could make it.

The Government may say that it can afford this titanic rate of spending because it can collect enough revenue from existing tax rates to pay all its bills. The fact remains that every dollar spent by the Government is a dollar collected from the taxpayers. In the new fiscal year they will be paying more taxes in total than ever. If the cost of the hospital insurance scheme is added to the main budget, it rises to something like $130 millions and the per capita taxes of British Columbia will stand at $114, or $456 for a family of four, which is $38 a month. This in addition to annual Federal taxes of about $257 per capita from which B.C. gets back $27 per capita in Federal grants for vacant income tax field.

It should not be forgotten either that the Government's present huge revenues are the fruit of a boom unprecedented in Canadian history. The least slump in that boom, and hence in the national income, could plunge the Government into serious deficits. Mr. Anscomb is basing his revenues on an exceedingly doubtful foundation, spending all he can collect now and committing himself to a steadily-expanding series of increased expenditures which he may not be able to meet in anything like normal times.

In such a budget, all pretense at economy is abandoned and Mr. Anscomb's famous radio speech deploring increased expenditure becomes a curious mockery. If Mr. Anscomb meant what he said in that speech he cannot really believe in the soundness of his budget. He cannot have it both ways.

It must be said, however, that the whole Government, every member in it and Mr. Johnson above all the others, are responsible for the budget. So is every member of the Legislature who votes for it. And so are all members of the public who, by their demands, are persuading the Government and Legislature to spend more and more, with no end of budgetary increases in sight.

The only defence that can be made of this budget—a pretty lame defence—is that the alternative of a Winch budget would be much worse. Certainly a C.C.F. government, by the party's own pronouncements, would spend and tax far more than the Coalition. But that does not excuse the extravagance of the Government, which was elected because the public does not want Mr. Winch's policies.

In its darkest moments politics always contains a glint of humor. The finance minister who introduces this reckless budget calls himself a Conservative.

When Friends Quarrel

WHEN A PRIVATE CANADIAN trader exports goods to a private trader in Britain and loses money he may be disappointed and angry but he does not blame the whole British nation. No one would listen if he did. When the Canadian Government exports goods to the British Government and loses money at once these losses become a bitter political controversy. Instead of one obscure trade blaming another without public complaint, governments begin to quarrel.

That is what has happened in the fiasco of the Canadian Government's wheat deal with Britain. The Canadian Government thinks Britain got the best of the deal, by buying our wheat below the open-market price and refusing to compensate our farmers for this huge saving. The British Government says, and rightly, that it obeyed the letter of the contract. Thus serious and unnecessary friction has developed between Ottawa and London at the very moment when it is most deplorable.

The Canadian Government, of course, says nothing openly against the British Government but its feelings no doubt are expressed by an unnamed Ottawa spokesman whom The Financial Post quoted last week: "We hadn't any legal right to a further payment by the United Kingdom. But I'm sure Britain will regret the day she didn't go at least part way in trying to do something for us. The contract is going to stink for many a year. It'll certainly be tough on any British attempts to sell motor cars or other goods in the West. It may jeopardize settlement of the interest-free loan which has to be made this year." These are provocative words and dangerous. They indicate that beneath the polite surface of diplomatic exchanges Ottawa, or part of it, is boiling mad.

It had hoped until the last minute, The Financial Post says, to persuade the British Government to borrow some more money from Canada and hand it back to the Canadian farmer. There was still a sum of $65 millions unused in Canada's loan to Britain. Mr. Gardiner flew to London, says the Post, to ask the British Government to accept this amount and apply it to the wheat contract. Before Mr. Gardiner had crossed the Atlantic the British Government announced definitely it would accept no more Canadian money since it was in debt to Canada far enough.

Mr. Gardiner's plan having failed, the Canadian Government decided to pay the wheat farmer $65 millions out of the public treasury anyway.

Government trade deals generally result in this sort of disagreeable post mortem. Britain has quarreled with Argentina over a meat deal, with Denmark over a bacon deal. It is having trouble with Australia over the price of wool. And in every case, where private traders would adjust their arguments without political repercussions and international friction, government quarrels divide whole nations. The financial losses of the wheat deal are bad enough. The political consequences are much worse.

Mr. Towers' Last Resort

A FEW WEEKS AGO MR. GRAHAM Towers, Governor of the Bank of Canada and one of the most respected of the nation's servants, gave a press conference and handed out his annual report to the newspapermen. Unfortunately it was Mr. Towers' ad lib remarks and not his report which caught the headlines. "As a result, most readers must have imagined that Mr. Towers had expressed little serious objection to general price controls. When his considered report is read just the opposite conclusion emerges.

Mr. Towers clearly gives the first priority in the inflation struggle to fiscal measures—that is, adequate taxes, interest rates and the contraction of credit to bring the public's demand for goods into better balance with the available supply of goods. Such policies are "essential prerequisites for stability" and Mr. Towers, so far as his power goes, is using them by damping down the loans of private banks which, in fact, increase the total money supply.

He admits that fiscal measures may not be enough "under all conditions"—if, for example, "defence expenditure became so great that it was humanly impossible to finance it on a pay-as-you-go basis, or if at an earlier stage financial measures designed to produce a fair allocation of the burden did not command public understanding and support."

Then it might be necessary "to make increasingly general use of direct controls in order to back up fiscal and monetary measures, despite the dangers to economic efficiency and personal freedom inherent in such controls."

Financially speaking, no such situation has arisen yet since the Government is paying as it goes and collecting far more money than it is spending. But whether the public is willing to give the fiscal measures now under way a chance to work, whether it will accept less goods by voluntary restraint, or must accept them by the compulsion of controls or higher prices, remains to be seen in the testing time ahead.

Mr. Towers is not a psychologist or a prophet. He cannot predict the public humor. It is perfectly clear, however, that he regards direct price controls as a last resort and then only as a prop to support fiscal measures.

Best Available At The Time

PRESUMABLY WORKING ON THE theory of supply and demand, a mid-market Star writer has forecast a preferred position for the U.S. male in the eternal battle of the sexes. Census figures, he says, show the female the more numerous in his country. From that he draws the inference that the male, formerly the mere male, will be in heavy demand. Bald, puny, scrawny or fat, man will be sought after and cherished by a surplus of women.

If he is right, the woman who gets her man will be as lucky as the first shopper at the bargain counter, and she'll have to hang on to what she's got or some less fortunate sister will snatch it from her.

It's an engaging speculation, but even the boldest economist who would be subject to shattering deflation. It would be too easy, in the years ahead, for a wife to explain his defects and shortcomings. "Something I got during the shortage, you know. Probably not the best, but the most available."

Loose Ends

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

THE GOVERNMENT of Mr. Byron Johnson is now feeling its first baptism of fire. That is good for it. Good for British Columbia, too.

The Johnson Government has had too easy a time. It has fed from the beginning on the honeydew of an unimaginable boom. It has seen the easy money rolling in and has rolled it out just as easily. Among Canadian governments it has tended to become a good-time Charlie.

Now the political honeymoon is over and the Government wakes up to find itself wedded to a gigantic budget, a distended structure of taxes. Foolish and prodigal as it has been in contracting this marriage, it is facing its marital responsibilities with considerable courage by collecting the taxes it needs in the open. If it had shown equal courage in resisting demands on the treasury the present hang-over would be much less severe.

ANY GOVERNMENT is popular so long as it is merely spending money. When it has to collect taxes to cover its expenditures at once it becomes unpopular—especially with the people who have made it spend in the first place. This government reaches a nadir in its popularity about half way through its term. The shock of unpopularity is especially sharp to a government which has never known serious criticism before and has thought, rather naively, that everybody was its friend.

This is nothing to get excited about. Nearly all governments are at their lowest ebb midway between elections. It is a good time for a slump and it gives the government a chance to recover before the next poll.

HOWEVER, the least reverse shakes Mr. Johnson's party followers who have never before felt the crunch of political war. To be unpopular because they are doing the right thing about hospital insurance is a new and shattering experience. But if they are right and stand firm they will probably find the people returning to them. The very best politics in the long run is to be unpopular for a sound reason, since in the end the people want governments that know their own minds.

What has happened here seems very complicated but is simple and familiar. British Columbia has bumped headlong into the Welfare State. Every government in the Western world is suffering from the same collision.

THE WELFARE STATE means only that the public elects to spend a larger part of its income through the government for certain purposes and less through its own hands. It elects to buy hospital services and few investments could be sounder—at the expense of cutting down on other purchases.

The trouble arises when it becomes clear at last that hospital service must mean cutting down on other purchases. Money paid to the Government to provide this service is money that the ordinary man cannot spend on something else.

This, you would think, is obvious enough, but when it is suddenly discovered that the Government totals up the hospital bill and presents it honestly to the people, many of them seem to think they have been cheated and robbed. Through their Legislature they asked for the hospital service, they said they wanted it in preference to some thing else and now they must pay for it.

WHETHER it was wise to start the scheme in the first place is another matter. The people, as represented by their Legislature, insisted on starting it. They must pay for it or abandon it since no one else is going to pay.

This experience in British Columbia, which is exploding in the Legislature now, is extremely educational in the process called democracy. It teaches the basic lesson which democracy has to learn over and over again in every generation—namely, that nothing in government is provided for nothing, that there is only a certain amount of goods available at any given time and that if we take more of one kind we must take less of another.

BY THE POLICY of the Johnson Government that lesson is made admirably clear. The costs of hospitalization are not smuggled away in the ordinary budget and paid invisibly out of general taxes. They are handed directly to the people in hospital premiums. By this means and by no other is it possible for the people to realize, in their own private budgets, what "free" hospitalization is costing them.

It is costing them a lot, but a serious illness would cost any British Columbian far more. Mr. Johnson may be sure indeed, that any person who has been in hospital a few weeks will come out and vote for the government which has paid his bill and will gladly submit to the increased premium.

THIS DOESN'T MEAN, of course, that the insurance scheme cannot be improved by better collections and economy in operation. Nor does it mean that the Government can afford its present fantastic budget. But the Government shouldn't let itself be thrown off balance by the temporary anger of the public or the timidity of a few of its followers in the Legislature. The public, after a little time to think, will realize what is going to happen if Mr. Winch gets into the treasury.

The person who foots the bill frequently has to display a long head.

Youth is that period of age when a man isn't afraid to run up a flight of steps.

Hospital Insurance Comment

With regard to increased hospital premiums, the question has been raised, should it be added to the premium or to the sales tax. If it were added to the sales tax those that earn the most, and spend the most, would carry the increase. But I would like to understand why the whole thing isn't carried the same as income tax, pay according to income.

(Mrs.) E. WILKINSON

Vancouver, B.C.

Please allow me space to comment on our hospital insurance. I wonder if it is paid by all who should, as I heard of one person saying they can prosecute, she will not pay. Is there a complete check?

It is a wonderful scheme, if more study had been given such an act. No guarantee of a bed, doctor to be paid, charge the first 10 days in hospital.

Have seen letters stating some patients have hospitalitis. That is, no sense. Most folks would sooner be outside looking in.

LILIAN BILES

389 Obed Avenue.

I don't think it is fair to ask everyone to pay the same premium, regardless of their income. Some people can well afford to pay more than others.

It is no wonder that it is costing us a lot of money, too! For one thing there seems to be a lot of people exempt for one reason or another, then they tell us that they have 17 men out trying to round up those that haven't paid. I doubt if they collect enough to pay their salary.

If our government would add a little more to the sales tax they already have, along with what it now costs to collect under the present system, they could get along without premiums being paid by anyone, or penalizing them for the first 10 days in the hospital.

F. W. MARSLAND.

1417 Fernwood Road.

Let the present authorities at the hospital be asked to resign and let them be made responsible for the debt incurred by them. For instance when they saw the hospital was getting badly into debt, they raised the nurses' wages, which is one of the biggest assets. Nobody but a pack of idiots would have done such a thing.

Let us refuse to pay the new rates under the present administration or we may have to pay more later on. Let us have first of all a public investigation into the books of the association and see where the trouble lies.

E. A. S. DANIELL

1539 Monterey Avenue.

It must be patent to the crew now on station at the Parliament Buildings that a solution must be found to this infamous hospitalization set-up.

I have written at length about this previously but my complete letter was

As a Victoria resident, spending some time in Brazil, I was very pleased to see the headline "Victoria, Canada" in the newspaper here today—particularly speaking in the cause of a free press.

I thought you ought to know that Victoria finds a place along with London, New York, etc., to be quoted in the championship of such a fine newspaper as Buenos Aires "La Prensa."

Under Arrest

By JOSEPH ALSOP from Leipzig

BEING arrested tends to be a memorable experience under any circumstances. Being arrested (or at least "detained for inquiry") by the powerful Russian-managed political police in a satellite state, is also an experience that instructs and enlightens. Such was the culminating episode of this correspondent's second annual visit to the Leipzig fair, where rough notes for this report were somewhat nervously made.

Joseph

In crude outline, what happened was simple enough. In one of the black Leipzig squares, another newspaperman in the party took a snapshot of a Free German Youth, military band-plinched, cold-encrusted young faces, cheeks air-swollen, and many battered trumpets elevated at the old Nazi angle. A political police plainclothes group then picked up our party, shadowed us for four hours, and pounced at the instant when the car was being started for the return to Berlin.

If the tough, intelligent German political policeman had had his way, all might have ended there, after proof was given that our party was not a batch of British agents. But the German veteran of the Spanish civil war and the anti-Nazi underground has had to yield, as a matter of course, to his pimply, excited, very youthful Russian "colleague."

And so we were taken to the huge headquarters of the People's Police. We were interrogated for a while. We were even vouchsafed a majestic glimpse of the People's Police President of Leipzig (a military-style figure, strikingly reminiscent of the all too well remembered pictures of leading Nazis 10 years before). And we were finally released, with many a handshake, after the offending roll of films had been developed, and its family pictures sternly studied.

DEEPLY INTERESTED But even if we acquired no interesting campaign stars, it was deeply interesting, none the less, to observe the system at first hand. Especially it was interesting to find a Russian, German-speaking, plainly trained for the position, at work in the Volkspolizei at the low level of a plainclothes man. It meant that the reputation of the People's Police in East Germany had now been carried through to the end. It revealed, as a keyhole reveals a room, the completeness and directness of Russian control of the satellite government. There was no question about the domination of the young Russian over the much older, much more intelligent; much more experienced German.

It was deeply interesting, also, after the young Russian had decided he was mistaken and stopped covering us with his pistol, to talk to these men who should, by all the rules of political drama, have been such instinctively hostile groups.

Finally this odd police experience dramatized the development of the Soviet system in East Germany in the last year. Material conditions have improved. A sort of gray, semi-starvation is no longer the general look. But the police have become omnipresent. Russian control has been made infinitely more acute. The indoctrination of the servants of the system has been proved and intensified, until even a shrewd experienced man, like the Spanish civil war veteran, has no room in his mind except for tinny slogans. The system works, quite smoothly, quite well, and entirely for the benefit of the masters of the Soviet Union.

Ups And Downs

By BRIAN A. TOBIN

"IT SEEMS to me," said the Elevator Man, "that one of the first things you notice about crime news is how often the boys do all their work for nothing."

Time after time you read of yeggs who spent all night burning their way into a safe, when the safe door was unlocked all the time. Owners have even written the combination on the safe, and the burglars have drilled and pried their way into it anyway. It makes you begin to wonder if criminals are as smart as they're supposed to be. Or if straight pride of craftsmanship is the big motive, or a simple love of work, why don't they pick something that is more socially acceptable, something that wouldn't keep them out of the best clubs? A fellow who'll forsake everything, even the good regard of his fellowman, for his career, is pretty well dedicated. Perhaps it's the night work that appeals to them, or the privacy. Lots of people don't like anyone looking over their shoulder. Going down!

"Often," said the Elevator Man, "it's just some little thing that spoils the whole show. Take that case in Ohio the other day, where a gang wrestled a 1,000-pound safe out of a store and into a car. It sat there all week-end and was found Monday morning. It seems the car's rear bumper got hooked over the curb—and stayed there. That's enough to make a guy reform. He'd want to set himself a higher standard, or at least a higher bumper. Mezzanine."

Tobin

"When it comes to 'wasted effort,'" said the Elevator Man, "it's pretty hard to beat crime. Even when it's 'successful' it's a complete miss—hate's labor. While the crackman is burning away the safe door he's also burning away himself. His soul is melting under the torch. And when he gets the door open he may find the safe was like his soul: the door was unlocked all the time but there was nothing inside worth having."

Light Bulbs Now Forcing Saanich Daffodil Crops

Something new, for Canada, is being tried by Saanich commercial daffodil growers.

Instead of forcing the bulbs in a greenhouse, the plants are laid out in an unheated shed and subjected to the rays of electric lights until they come into bloom. The lights provide two essential things for growth—light and heat.

This method of forcing daffodils is new in Saanich. However, in England and Holland growers have been experimenting with electric bulbs for some time.

William Mattick, one of the leading bulb growers in Saanich, has over 18,000 plants now blooming under electric bulbs. "I'm satisfied with the experiment," he said. "But we still have many things to find out about this system of forcing plants."

Mr. Mattick said the electric light system of forcing daffodils will enable him to supplement hundreds of outdoor flowers which have been retarded due to cold night temperatures and which are not expected to bloom until after Easter.

British Ship Seized

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Foreign quarters today heard that a Chinese Nationalist warship had seized the British coastal steamer Lady Wolmer. Details and confirmation were lacking. If the ship were seized, it presumably would be because she was supposedly plying between Hongkong and Red China ports.

THE HOME GARDEN

Cacti Should Get More Watering Now

By HILDA BEASTALL

Cacti and succulents become increasingly interesting in the days of early spring.

You will soon notice a "liveliness" about the crown, or top of the plants. It may be a brighter coloring to the spines or the formation of new glochids (the tufts of fine, spiny hairs), or just a brighter shade of waxy green around the growth areas.

In many of the spring flowering varieties, such as Thelecactus bicolor, Acanthocactus schottii, the gymnocylindrus, and Opuntia basilaris, the flower buds are developing.

Those which flower in early summer, the Lobivia species, rebutias, Stapelia variegata, Hamatocactus setispinus, and many of the amphicarpus group, will soon show signs of bud development.

The majority of potted specimens of these two large, allied groups have required dry conditions during the winter, their dormant season.

More frequent watering is now in order, as often as once a week if the soil dries out in that period. The plants will enjoy a higher temperature, and the more spiny subjects will do well in direct sunlight.

Re-potting may be done now if it is necessary, except in the case of plants which already have flower buds. These are better left until the flowers are over.

Larger pots are only necessary when the plant needs more root space, or when the soil is completely worn out. Cacti and succulents should never be over-potted nor over watered.

Those indoor gardeners who have experienced the thrill of having a cactus in bloom, who have marvelled at the magnificence of the flower form and colors, know the value of a little extra care and attention at this time of year.

Spectators Hurt As Fight Starts In Arena Passage

Mrs. Thomas Nute, 3608 Douglas, suffered a compound fracture of the left elbow and a cut nose Monday night when she was knocked down a Memorial Arena stone stairway during a fight between two women and a man, police reported.

She was reported to be in good condition at Jubilee Hospital today.

Constable Lorne Shandley reported Mrs. Nute had been knocked over as she mounted the stairs.

Constable Shandley identified the quarrelling trio as Freda Spraggatt, Nicholas Draginda, sailor, and Isabelle Draginda.

A young boy, Paul Smith, 3016 Jutland Road, was also knocked over in the fight.

'DUD' FOUND NEAR HGRS.

TOKYO (AP)—A 1,000-pound aerial bomb of the Second World War was uncovered today within 100 yards of Gen. MacArthur's headquarters. It caused scarcely a ripple of excitement. The second bomb found in the area, it was removed by a disposal squad.

Seeks Reinforcements

SAIGON, Indo-China (Reuter)—The French commander in Indo-China, Gen. Jean de Lattre de Tassigny, left by air for Paris today. He was expected to ask for more reinforcements. He will probably meet the French defence council and review the Indo-Chinese campaign with the new government.

City Council Protest On Bridge Advertising Panels

City Council voted as one on Tuesday when it approved a transportation committee recommendation that the provincial works department be advised the city does not approve of placing advertising panels on Crown property bordering Johnson Street, west of the bridge.

Council made Bridge Street a through street from Garbally to Bay in an effort to speed up traffic and alleviate congestion at the fountain circle.

Mayor Percy George will represent the city at the Canadian International Trade Fair in Toronto May 28 to June 8.

Ald. Frank Mulliner and Ald. Aubrey Kent were named to the court of revision.

Would Eliminate Ban On U.S. Decorations

"This ban is nonsensical," the Express said in an editorial. "Let the men put up their medals . . . they have been fairly won."

Hint U.S. Army Working Toward 'Sky Platforms'

Artificial Satellites To Encircle Earth
Mention In New York By Russian Spy

WASHINGTON (AP)—The idea of creating artificial satellites to circle around the earth out in space is getting continued attention from the American military.

An air force spokesman, asked today if studies of the project had been disclosed two years ago are continuing, replied only that "the air force is still interested."

He could not discuss what, if any, progress has been made.

A reference to the project went into testimony Monday at the New York trial of three persons charged with conspiring to spy for Russia. Former army sergeant David Greenglass, himself a confessed spy and now a witness at the trial, mentioned the satellite project. He said he had been told "one of the boys" had passed to one of the defendants information on a "sky platform." This was explained as a satellite. The information, said Greenglass, was obtained late in 1947.

That was two years before a department of defence annual report made a brief and curious mention of "earth satellite" studies in connection with guided-missile research. Thus, if Greenglass' testimony is accurate, the United States appears to have been working at the theory for at least four years.

Some military scientists speculate that, at least initially, the sky platform would not be a place from which to fire guided missiles at target on the earth as it rotated beneath the satellite. Instead, they suggest that it might be used for the control of long-range trans-oceanic rockets.

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Senate interior committee wrote "perfecting" amendments into the Alaskan-Hawaiian statehood bills Tuesday and prepared for a vote next Tuesday.

HORSE MEAT SALE OKAYED

EDMONTON (CP) — Two Edmonton business men have been authorized by city council to open a stall in the city hall market for the sale of horsemeat. Council stipulated the stall must sell only horsemeat and it must be plainly advertised as such.

The men are O. E. Moore and Harold Ferguson, directors of a plant which has been processing horsemeat here for five years. He said the cost of horsemeat here will be 35 to 40 per cent that of beef.

Hydro Power Great Asset

Burning of 500,000 tons of coal per year would be required to produce an amount of energy delivered each year by Vancouver Island's two major hydroelectric plants, T. W. Walker, told members of the Kiwanis Club Tuesday at the Empress hotel.

The former B.C. Electric engineer, who built and operated the Brentwood power plant until his retirement a short time ago, described the properties of water, and the complete dependence of life processes on water.

President Ronald M. Lochhead and Art Roberts reported on progress made toward the showing of "Tzinquaw," native Indian opera which will open tonight at the Royal Theatre under sponsorship of the Kiwanis Club.

Spots Of Humor Brighten 3-Hour Speech On Budget Facts, Figures

By LLOYD BAKER

A little breeze in the budget speech of Finance Minister Anscomb in the Legislature yesterday was more than welcome.

It served to cool brows fevered by masses of figures and statistics which the government's financial mastermind piled on the members.

The light touches were spaced well by the minister during his report on the state of the province's purse, and there was a full house most of the time with ears attentive.

You can't stump this man Anscomb on anything, apparently.

He makes a dry speech interesting, and he's got an answer for anything that comes up.

The account of his budget speech showed where he was $12,700,000 out in his estimate of the revenue the province would receive in the current fiscal year, and he pointed to inflation as the reason.

In another estimate in which he was far off the mark, inflation was the reason. The minister had estimated he'd be speaking two hours. But overused vocal chords slowed him down and he was going 50 minutes longer.

The speech got off on a serious note which the minister brightened with the assistance of his old friend from the opposition, Burnaby's Ernest Winch.

Mr. Anscomb was joining other members in expressing gratification that Premier Johnson and Mrs. Johnson had made good progress in recovering from injuries they received in a highway accident in the East last year.

New Walkie-Talkie Lighter, Stronger

WASHINGTON (AP) — The army is out with a new walkie-talkie weighing half as much but with nearly twice the range of the radio set carried by troops in the Second World War. The signal corps demonstrated the new 22-pound apparatus Tuesday. A spokesman said the sets "are in quantity production" but have not yet reached the soldiers fighting in Korea.

LAKE DISCOVERER

Lake Ontario was discovered in 1615 by Etienne Brule, who was closely followed on the exploration trail by Champlain.

Mr. Johnson was in Quebec on business for the people at the time, and, said Mr. Anscomb, turning to Madam Speaker: "It was because a lady took the wrong turning, and didn't stay on the straight and narrow, that the accident happened."

"Men are always suffering because of that," contributed the elder Winch.

In a review of expenditures for 1949-50, the minister got away from the seriousness of the matter to tease the C.C.F. for a moment.

Among major items in the spending of $15,000,000 more than anticipated was $227,223 additional expenditure under the Provincial Elections Act.

"That was money well spent," joked the minister. "See what a good government you have."

The five-year driver's license gave Mr. Anscomb opportunity for some sideplay later.

He'd received a letter from an Okanagan man who said he was voting C.C.F. next election because of the new system of licensing.

Arthur Turner, the C.C.F. whip, said brightly: "He was joking, of course."

"As a matter of fact, old man," said Mr. Anscomb quite seriously, "I think he was."

Then W. A. C. Bennett, the Coalition member from Kelowna who challenged Mr. Anscomb last year for leadership of the Conservative party, questioned: "Hope that chap wasn't from South Okanagan."

"If he was," Anscomb replied quickly. "He wouldn't vote for you, anyway."

STILL WANTS DUEL WITH CHURCHILL

ROME (Reuter) — Count Vanni Teodorani Fabbri Serbelloni, who married one of Mussolini's nieces, reports he has had no reply to his March 1 letter challenging Winston Churchill or his son to a duel.

The challenge contained such phrases as, "You are not even fit to lick the shoes of some noble Italians whom you ordered to be assassinated."

It added: "I am doing this in the name of all the Italian soldiers who died and in memory of my unforgettable chief and Uncle Mussolini."

(The Count was provoked by an angry House of Commons ejection by Churchill telling Defence Minister Emanuel Shinwell he was "only fit to talk to the Italians." Churchill apologized later and said he meant no discourtesy to Italy.)

VICTORIAN SPRING by Cecil Maiden

XXXIII

At length Letty lifted from the drawer the dress in which she had arrived. It was mended now, and neatly ironed. She would leave the house in it. The other dresses — the black bombazine and the white ball gown were not, after all, her property.

She had 12 shillings of her own by this time—the amount left over after the purchase of some necessities out of her first month's wages. With that 12 shillings she would . . . ?

What could she do? Stipping out of the black dress, her hands trembling absurdly as they unhooked it, she tried to face the situation. In May she would be 23. She was strong, healthy, and she knew that she had a good voice. Amelia might suggest somewhere in town; perhaps after some introduction. And she might be back from her shopping in a few minutes now—if

Truman Plea Loses

WASHINGTON (UP) — The House Tuesday overwhelmingly rejected President Truman's request for emergency powers to reorganize federal agencies.

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario education department, in a circular to all secondary schools, has revealed that qualifying pupils will be excused from classes after May 18 to meet the urgent need for farm help. Only grades 11 and 12 students will be considered.

she had seen Mr. Cridge as planned.

Mr. Cridge! Almost as if they had been spoken aloud, the words repeated themselves in Letty's thought, and folding the black dress, she actually paused for a moment, listening.

Mr. Cridge knew everybody in Victoria. She had met him only last night at Caroline's party, but if there were any practical way in which a girl of her abilities might earn a living, then certainly Mr. Cridge would be able to advise her.

Just as her head was covered by the dress she heard the door open.

"Letty! What is all this nonsense?"

Letty's head emerged from the top of the dress, with her hair all ruffled and her face too obviously tear-stained.

Without waiting for any answer, Amelia closed the door behind her and strode forward, her quick eyes taking in the folded black dress and realizing its significance. "I had a few words with Caroline downstairs. What's it all about?"

Letty pushed back her hair from her eyes and sat on the small stool before her dressing table. "After what happened last night, Caroline feels . . . she believes . . ."

"The only thing Caroline believes just now is her own importance—which is like believing in an imaginary bump on the head. And whatever happened last night between Caroline and Jervis Braid can hardly be laid at your door."

"She feels that I led him to make an exhibition of himself."

"If kissing a lady's hand is making an exhibition of oneself then the Governor himself must be an exhibition! The truth is quite a different kettle of fish."

"And what is the truth, Amelia?"

"Your mirror could tell you better than I could, dear. Caroline was never able to stand competition—not even as a child. If I'd been born beautiful life wouldn't have been worth living here!"

"I came here to stop you going, dear. But I think you're wise enough to be allowed to do as you say. There'd always be trouble here, and when I left it might be a great deal worse for you."

Familiar Sight For Cougar Forwards

Busiest individual as Cougars trimmed Vancouver Canucks, 4 to 1, at Memorial Arena last night was goalie Hec Highton of Canucks. He has just cleared shot from Bob Frampton, not visible. Puck can be seen in air. Other Canucks are Eric Unger, centre, and Vic Lofvendahl. At Tacoma, Westminster was losing, 4 to 3.

Popular Official Returns

Making his first P.C.H.L. appearance this year in last night's game at the Memorial Arena, referee Bill Knott is back from his first full season in the National Hockey League. He will likely be used in the Coast League playoffs.

COULD THE SAME

Rules Are Rules, Here And Under The Big Top

"They call 'em about the same in the National Hockey League as they do down here," Bill Knott, freshman, referee of the N.H.L., said last night as he laced up his skates prior to officiating in the game between Canucks and Cougars at the Memorial Arena.

Bill is recently returned from the N.H.L. where he says he has used up his quota of games, and being a junior official wasn't likely to see any service in the N.H.L. playoffs.

After satisfying several youthful minds concerning the prowess of their heroes under the big top, Bill got the call to duty and refereed his first P.C.H.L. game this season. And few will say he didn't handle it in a manner befitting an N.H.L. official.

Cougars On Top Again As Royals Bow To Rockets

By BILL WALKER

By now every red-blooded hockey fan should know that last night the Cougars moved back into first place in the Pacific Coast Hockey League.

It should be common knowledge that the Cougars accomplished the feat by whipping Vancouver Canucks, 4 to 1, at the Memorial Arena.

It should also be well known that Muzz Patrick's Tacoma Rockets threw a big assist the Cougars' way by edging New Westminster Royals, 4 to 3, at Tacoma.

Another fact that should not have been overlooked is that Cougar centre Eddie Dorohoy slipped one point further back of New Westminster's Ken Ulyot in their league scoring race. Ulyot picked up three assists and Dorohoy one goal and one assist to leave the Royals' pivot man with 83 points and Dorohoy with 81.

And for those who have really been keeping tabs on the Cougars, it shouldn't need to be explained that last night's triumph was the Cats' 18th game without a defeat on home ice.

PROGNOSTICATION
If anything has been forgotten it's probably that the result of last night's games—all else being equal—means that the Cougars will meet Portland in the first round of the post-season playoffs and New Westminster will meet Tacoma.

So much for figures. They'll be covered later. But there's one little item that may work in the Cougars' favor and it concerns a former Cougar—Hec Highton, who now plays goal for Vancouver.

Highton wasn't giving anything away last night, not even goals and the four shots that beat him were more than well-earned. All he did was to stop 40 other drives—some of his saves bordering on the sensational—while his counterpart and successor, Jerry Cotnoir, spent most of the night counting the house, occasionally taking time out to safely handle nine Canuck efforts.

And just to show that Highton's heart is in the right place after all, the big goalie said after the game: "I hope we can beat Westminster for you; I'll be in there trying all the way."

MAY NEED HELP
And it might be up to Highton at that for the remainder of the schedule as it affects New Westminster has the Royals meeting Vancouver on Friday and Saturday. Cougars must get by Seattle Friday and Sunday.

Last night it was the Cougars all the way in a ragged encounter. The three-goal margin of victory can be directly attributed to Highton. He held down the count.

Never headed after Joe Evans slapped home a loose puck on a blocked drive by Roger Leger in the first period the Cougars forced a terrific pace. Dorohoy made it 2 to 0 at 8:41 of the second period, with Leger and Bob Frampton in on the play.

COAST FINAL

Rocks Host Arctic Club On Friday

It will be Vancouver senior B Arctics against Victoria's Ten O' Two Shamrocks at the Badminton Hall Friday night. Arctics won the lower mainland title over the week-end with a 54 to 44 win over Powell River.

The mainland-island series is the third round of the provincial senior-B playoffs. Winners must travel to the interior for the semifinals, and to Prince Rupert for the finals.

The Shamrock game will be the second of a three-game card slated for Friday.

First game will get under way at 6 when Victoria's intermediate A Moose women meet Alberni in the second game for the island championship.

Shamrocks-Arctics will meet in the second tilt at 7:30; and a 9 Arrow Furniture, city senior A women's entry, will meet Vancouver's Eilers Jewellers for the provincial senior A women's crown.

On Saturday night, second games will be played in the senior B men and senior A women's series.

VIEWS OF SPORT

By RED SMITH

VERO BEACH, Fla.—Iron Mike and the Brass Duke, two of the pitching machines which were installed here when Branch Rickey was toying with the idea of eliminating the human element from baseball, were pouring strikes across the plate. Members of the Dodger pitching staff were taking turns at bat, each laying down a hundred bunts as fast as the machines could throw.

Branch Rickey is gone, but not all traces of his presence have vanished from the Brooklyn College of Physical Culture. When he was presiding genius of the Dodgers, he hired a man who can do more with figures than was dreamed of in Florenz Ziegfeld's philosophy, and because of that, Brooklyn may, now and then this summer, win a ball game which would have been lost last year.

When Chuck Dresen succeeded Burt Shotton as the Brooklyn manager, he was allowed to study the findings of a statistician named Allan Roth, whom Rickey employed to measure every player's worth by the cold science of mathematics. Now, Dresen, like all experienced managers, was cognizant of what baseball men call "the percentage"—the advantages of having a right-handed batter swinging against a left-handed pitcher, and so on. But neither Charley nor anybody else ever had seen performance on the field translated on paper as Roth can translate it.

History Didn't Repeat Here

One thing Dresen learned was that Brooklyn got only 27 sacrifice hits out of its entire pitching corps last season. When you consider that the pitcher, usually the weakest link in the line-up, is the man most likely to be asked to bunt, you appreciate what it means when a dozen or so pitchers are able to advance only 27 runners during 154 games of nine innings or more. It means the pitchers just can't bunt. Which is the reason why Dresen has them toiling at this simple but important tactic this spring.

On the basis of past performances, the book tells a manager what to expect from each hitter against right-handed pitchers and against left-handers; which ones hit best with men on bases (Jackie Robinson does), and who chokes up in the clutch; which pinch-batter is most likely to succeed against Johnny Sain in the ninth inning of a night game in Boston with the score tied, runners on first and third base, two out and the count two balls and two strikes, in August.

A Fleeting Glimpse Of Fame

In many instances, the manager would suspect the truth on the basis of his own observation. He would assume, for instance, that Preacher Roe, being neither robust nor juvenile, would pitch best if he had ample rest between assignments. The book shows that when Roe worked with less than three days' rest in 1950, he won two and lost two games, that when he had exactly three days' rest he won seven and lost six, and that when he had rested more than three-days he won nine and lost three. One look at that record, and any dope knows how Roe should be handled.

Everybody knows that PeeWee Reese habitually takes the first pitch, whereas Roy Campanella is a good first-ball hitter. Consequently, pitchers try to throw the first one across the plate against Reese and get an easy strike on him. Here's what the book shows: there were 494 first pitches thrown to Campanella, he swung at 193 of them and took 82 called strikes; Reese got 633 first pitches, swung only 74 times and let the pitcher begin by slipping a called strike past him 225 times.

Hubbell And His Screwball

All managers lecture pitchers on the importance of being ahead of the batter on the ball-and-strike count. All young pitchers should see those figures: Brooklyn's team batting average when the hitter was ahead of the pitcher was .319; when pitcher and batter were even on the count, .302; when the pitcher was ahead, .233. That shows what the good curve does, for that is the pitch which is thrown when the pitcher is ahead.

Most batters get over-anxious when there are two strikes against them. When there were two strikes against Dodger batters last year—regardless of how many balls may have been called—they hit .197 as a team. (Jackie Robinson is the most dangerous hitter in the league on the third strike.) Young pitchers should study that item, too. And consider how many games they could win if they could hold the best hitting team in the league to .107.

Commercial Puck Ties End Tonight

It will be Navy or Meteors in the Commercial Hockey League's last playoff spot after the sudden-death game at the Memorial Arena tonight.

Sailors saw their berth almost snatched from under them Monday as the flying Gladwell men got themselves a 2 to 0 shutout, forcing the tie-breaking tilt to tonight.

In the second game of the evening Civil Service will meet Douglas Tire in an effort to break the second-place deadlock which developed when the deskmen walked the tiremen, 6 to 2.

Winners of this game will meet winners of the Navy-Meteors game in one semifinal bracket of the playoff. Fishermen's Coop will meet losers in the other semifinal bracket.

First game is at 7:30.

Curling Club Membership To Make Decision

Abandonment of plans to build a new curling rink here may be recommended to the annual general meeting of the Victoria Curling Club tonight.

First inkling that abandonment was being considered was given prior to an executive meeting two weeks ago by city building inspector J. W. Oosterink. A member of the curling club executive, Oosterink said he did not think it possible to secure the construction material under the new restrictions.

DERENTURES SOLD
The club has been working on a plan to raise nearly $100,000 by the sale of debentures. If the project is discontinued the amount already collected, $15,000, must be returned with interest to the subscribers.

Tonight's meeting is to be held in the council chambers at the city hall at 8.

EDMONTON (CP)—Edmonton Flyers dumped Saskatoon Quakers 5 to 3 last night to capture second place in the Western Canada Senior Hockey League. A capacity crowd of some 7,500 persons attended.

Western Germany Finds Rearmament Not Easy

By ROBERT HAEGER
BONN, Germany (AP)—Menaced by strong anti-rearmament and pro-neutrality forces in the population, the West German chancellor, Konrad Adenauer, is trying to build a bi-partisan foreign policy.

Taking part in defense of the west would be its keystone. However, the only man who could make it bi-partisan, the Socialist chief Kurt Schumacher, is showing great reluctance to play ball.

It is in the parliamentary Bundestag (lower house) that the rearmament question must come for an ultimate solution and vote.

There Adenauer operates on a hair-slim margin of seven seats out of 402. Without the 130 Socialist votes, rearmament can never get the resounding endorsement it needs to make it acceptable to the German people.

LETTERS EXCHANGED

The chancellor finally swallowed his pride and approached his rival. He wrote a letter inviting Schumacher to join him in a discussion of important problems, including that of German becoming soldiers again.

That was weeks ago. All that has happened since is that four more letters have been written, three by Schumacher.

In one, the Socialist expressed his willingness to get together with the chancellor. In another, he suggested Adenauer ask the Big Four to try to work out a deal for supervised all-German elections and eventual reunification of West German and the Soviet zone.

The third letter re-stated the Socialist Party stand on rearmament with a few wrinkles that do not augur well for the realization of any bi-partisan hopes.

Schumacher gave this list of conditions for his support of rearmament:

1. Political equality for the Bonn republic.
2. Mass troop reinforcements from the allies.
3. A stepped-up social security program.
4. New federal parliamentary elections.

DIVISION OF OPINION

The first two coincide closely with Adenauer's own preferences. The others are anathema to him. The chancellor is proud of his own social program, which includes giving labor a big voice in management of the coal and steel industries. He repeatedly has rejected the old refrain for new elections which streams from the Socialists.

It is Schumacher's contention that the present Bundestag, elected before the rearmament issue arose, is not qualified to consider the question. His view was strengthened by the results of three state elections late in 1950.

In those, the Socialists, fighting against quick rearmament, gained considerably, while Adenauer's Christian Democrats took a painful walloping for advocating prompt German entry into western defense forces.

The state balloting also had the effect of breaking up an earlier series of Adenauer-Schumacher discussions. The two had been meeting regularly for several months. They broke off abruptly when the Socialists rode to victory in the state capitals.

Ferry Skipper Makes Jackpot On Radio Quiz

NEW YORK (UP)—A ferry boat captain is amazed at how little the average American knows about literature, history and geography.

The captain, 42-year-old Robert Wayne Wilson, had just walked away from a quiz program with $4,000, so he had proof of the value of book learning.

"Most people nowadays keep up pretty well with what's going on currently but when you get into history or literature, well, I'm just amazed at the money that gets away from people on these quiz programs," said the captain. He is a graduate of Wisconsin University with a literature major.

EASY FOR HIM

The money-winning question on NBC's "Break the Bank" morning radio program was to name the author of the poem "Kubla Khan."

Capt. Wilson, vacationing here with his wife, promptly answered correctly, "Samuel Taylor Coleridge." He could have recited a good part of it but nobody asked him.

Then he tucked the cheque in his pocket and got ready to head back to Pennsylvania, N.J., and 12 trips a day on the ferry from Pennsylvania to Newcastle, Del.

"To a seafaring man, this seems like peanuts," he said.

"He means the ferry, not the $4,000," his wife quickly interrupted, and the captain grinned. "I used to be in the merchant marine but I got tired of not seeing my family for months," he added. "I worked on the copy desk of a newspaper for two years—the Baltimore News-Post. Then I got this job."

Capt. Wilson never won a quiz show before but he answers plenty of questions in his job. "People ask me how long it takes to get across the river and how the radar works and things like that," he explained. "But I never figured on answering a question worth $4,000."

Aussie Sets Flying Mark

SYDNEY, Australia (CP)—Capt. Keith Virtue recently logged his 20,000th hour of flying time. This is an Australian record, believed to be exceeded only by a United States pilot who has 22,000 hours flying time logged.

Captain Virtue is 41 and he has been flying since he was 18. He flies now for Australian National Airways and pilots DC-4s usually on Australian runs but sometimes to London.

He has logged a lot of his time on the treacherous Sydney to Brisbane run (463 air miles) which he has flown 3,020 times. He has flown Sydney-Melbourne (435 miles) 667 times, and Brisbane-Cairns (930 miles) 696 times.

He flew his 20,000th hour on the run from Sydney to Brisbane where he lives and as he stepped from his pilot's seat he remarked "I've still got years of flying left in me."

Spry Irishman At 80 Dean Of Civic Clerks

RUTHERGLEN, Ont. (CP)—A spry Irish youngster of 80 years is believed to be Canada's oldest municipal clerk both in age and in length of service.

For 53 years Mick Dunn has been handling the affairs of this northern Ontario township of Bonfield, and during that time nine reeves have come and gone and Mick has attended the funerals of most of them.

A former lumberjack who took over the clerk's post in 1897 at the request of Councilor Andrew Shields because former clerks had quit or been fired with monotonous regularity, Mick can still handle an axe with pep and skill.

At 77 he taught himself to use the typewriter—"I'm a one-finger artist"—and the ladies of the area promptly descended on him to type programs for their bazaars and church festivals and what have you.

Mick can remember the days when as a slip of a lad of 10, fresh from Ireland, he worked as a water boy helping build the transcontinental C.P.R. line across northern Ontario. He was paid 50 cents a day.

In those days it was a common sight to see 2,000 lumberjacks gather for the spring logging drives down the Ottawa River, and Mick says he can remember when Andrew Shields—a legendary figure in these parts—used to barter with Indians by trading groceries piled on one end of a teeter-totter for an equal weight of furs piled on the other end.

Mick can also remember when Rutherglen was moved lock, stock and barrel from its old site four miles away because nobody had settled in the original location. But he admits he finds it difficult to remember children's names these days, although his clerking job is still an easy chore, he says.

Indians Thought Youths On Spree Were 'Windigos'

THE PAS, Man. (CP)—Strange little men ran through the bush one night near Island Lake, 300 miles northeast of Winnipeg.

Superstitious Indians said they must be "windigos"—the Indian version of the bogeyman.

Trembling squaws kept watch on sleeping children. Braves stood guard outside. Public prayers were said.

Forty well-armed braves decided to hunt out the spooks but found nothing. They boasted that the Windigos were afraid of them.

Finally, the R.C.M.P., at Norway House, 150 miles away, were called.

They found the bogeyman—three teen-age lads whose run through the woods had started the scare.

The original Windigos, according to legend, was a transformed human who killed and ate hunters. Last report of a Windigo at large came last November from Poplar Hills post, 200 miles north of Kenora, Ont., near the Manitoba border.

Church Tower Museum

BJERRINGBRO, Denmark (CP)—A schoolteacher in this little Danish town has unearthed nearly 2,000 relics of stone age men who lived in this country 7,000 years ago. Then the local parson had a happy idea and the church tower is to be made into a stone age museum.

Nickel alloy steels contribute to the ruggedness of tractors, bulldozers, and other equipment.

Steam shovels and other earth-moving and construction equipment contain many parts made of strong, tough, durable nickel steels and nickel cast irons.

Hundreds of everyday uses for Nickel have been developed by the Nickel industry through a planned program of research. Today a large share of Canada's Nickel production is being diverted from peacetime uses into channels for preparedness. JACOBY ON BRIDGE

"Who is more at fault for the overbidding of this hand?" asks a Binghamton correspondent. "Seven spades was a terrible contract and deservedly went down. On winning the opening lead with the king of hearts, South led a trump to the king in the hope that West had a singleton honor or the doubleton queen-jack. Since neither was the case he had to lose a trump trick."

Both players overbid, but North is the chief culprit. South stretched quite a bit when he jumped to four clubs. Three clubs would have been a better bid.

North was not justified in using the Blackwood convention. He found out only what he should have known before: that South had a very good hand including two aces and three kings. This was not important; it was more important to find out how strong South's spade suite happened to be, and this information could never be obtained by the use of the Blackwood convention.

This type of hand should be bid tentatively by both players. Each player hints at slam, hoping that the other will eventually come through with an enthusiastic enough bid in spades to justify a grand slam contract. Since neither partner can properly do this, the partnership should eventually wind up at only six spades.

Curiously enough, however, seven spades can be made. I will not claim that the successful line of play should be adopted if you cannot see all the cards. However, it is interesting for its own sake.

South wins the first trick, leads a diamond to dummy's queen, cashes the ace of hearts, ruffs a heart, leads the king of diamonds to dummy's ace, and ruffs another heart. South next cashes the top clubs and ruffs a club in dummy, returning by ruffing a diamond.

When South now leads a club, West is down to his three trumps; dummy has two trumps and a diamond; and East has two trumps and a club. If West ruffs low, dummy over-ruffs and cashes the king of spades, after which South makes the last trick with the ace of spades. If West ruffs high, dummy over-ruffs with the king; after which Q—With both sides vulnerable you deal and bid one diamond. Your partner bids one spade. The opponents pass throughout. You hold: Spades Q-4, Hearts A-J-3, Diamonds K-Q-9-5-2, Clubs A-8-4. What do you do?

A—Bid two diamonds. The hand is slightly too strong for a rebid of one no-trump (which would show a minimum opening bid). A rebid in diamonds may be made on a minimum, but it may also be made on a hand of fair strength. Hence your partner may try another response over two diamonds but might pass over one no-trump.

Navy League Advises City It Will Leave Robert House By End Of Month

Navy League of Canada advised the city Tuesday it would have to vacate Prince Robert House on expiry of the present lease March 31 of this year.

MAY GET NEW LEASE

Forrest L. Shaw, president Vancouver Island Division of the league, wrote City Manager Cecil Wyatt following receipt of a breakdown of amounts which might be refundable to the league, in the event of continuing Prince Robert House under new lease terms.

"A further review of the situation has convinced us that in the present circumstances we could not afford to commit further capital to the project," Mr. Shaw wrote.

Council referred the letter to finance committee for report to council.

Mr. Shaw said the league would appreciate sympathetic financial consideration by the city "in view of the large capital investment made in the building."

Such aid, he said, would assist the league in the event of a similar hostel arrangement being instituted by the league in a different location.

Ald. Waldo Skillings said he would oppose any such move on the part of the city.

"I cannot see where Victoria is morally or financially obligated," he contended. "The league has had the building dirt cheap and any capital expenditures were made with their eyes wide open."

Young Girl Gets Death Sentence

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuter)—Two teen-aged murderers screamed and struggled in court here Tuesday when one was sentenced to death and the other to life imprisonment for battering to death an old man who had befriended them.

The motive was robbery. Mrs. Edith Martin, 18, cried "Oh, no, Daddy," when the judge donned the black cap and pronounced the verdict "death by hanging." She fought with jailers, who carried her from the court.

Her 20-year-old husband John, also accused of the murder, had hanged himself in a prison cell while awaiting trial.

Beryl Miller, the other woman accused, was sentenced to life imprisonment because she is only 17 and state law prohibits the death sentence of minors under 18. She shrieked "Curse you all" when sentence was passed.

Burgess Bedtime Story

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Ignorance excuses naught.
Thus with danger it is fraught.
— Farmer Brown's boy.

"More than once I have doubted my own eyes, but this time I have to believe them," said Farmer Brown's boy. He was looking up at a dozen long purse-like nests hanging down from branches of a tall tree in the jungle of the land-of-always-summer. They were gently swaying as busy Sister Trade Wind blew them back and forth. Mr. and Mrs. Yellow-tail and their friends, cousins of Goldie the Baltimore Oriole who nests in the north, had woven those nests, some of them at least five feet long.

"It doesn't seem possible. It really doesn't," continued Farmer Brown's boy.

"What doesn't seem possible?" his friend wanted to know.

Canada Soon To Get Second Uranium Mine

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Howe predicted Tuesday that Canada will soon reassume leadership in North American production of uranium.

Mr. Howe, director of Canada's atomic effort, was commenting on a Washington announcement that the United States has passed Canada to become the second largest producer of uranium in the world. The Belgian Congo is the largest.

This statement caused some surprise here because it had been assumed Canada was fairly well ahead of the U.S. in production of the atomic ingredient.

Mr. Howe based his statement on the fact that the government will soon be bringing a second uranium mine into production. The first is in the Northwest Territories.

"It doesn't seem possible that with no tools but bills and claws birds can actually weave, not to mention shape what they are weaving into such wonderful nests as those Yellow-tails have done," replied Farmer Brown's boy.

WITHOUT TOOLS

"It is wonderful that they can do it without tools and without a pattern," replied the other. "They are master craftsmen. There is no doubt about that. And they must take pride in their work. Otherwise it couldn't be done so well. You and I with the latest improved tools couldn't weave a nest like that in a lifetime. Yet those birds with only beaks and claws have done it. And they did it quickly, too. They are among the first birds of the year to nest, usually in January. I guess up north you don't have any birds nesting as early as that."

"None nesting quite so early, but Hooty the Great Horned Owl and Mrs. Hooty are not much later. They nest in February," replied Farmer Brown's boy.

"But there must be snow and ice up there then!" cried the other.

"Of course," replied Farmer Brown's boy in the most matter of fact tone. "But those Owls are tough. They seem not to mind snow and ice. If they did they wouldn't stay around all winter as they do."

"And that to my mind is just as wonderful as the weaving of those nests by the Yellow-tails," replied his friend. He looked up at the wonderful hanging nests and shook his head. "It is too bad they must be gotten rid of," he added sadly.

BOY IS SURPRISED
The eyes of Farmer Brown's boy opened wide. "The nests?" he asked.

"No," was the prompt answer. "The weavers of them."

"Do you mean the Yellow-

"But those Owls are tough. They seem not to mind snow and ice."

tails?" cried Farmer Brown's boy. He looked a little horrified. The other nodded. "The Yellow-tails," said he.

"But why?" cried Farmer Brown's boy.

"Mischievous," replied the other. "They get in too much mischief."

"What kind of mischief?" Farmer Brown's boy looked as if he doubted that the mischief could be very serious.

"They are fruit eaters," explained the other. "They take so much fruit that they just about ruin crops for some growers. I told you how fond of corn they are. Where many are about it is impossible to raise enough corn for the table. So some folks call them Corn Birds. The Yellow-tails get most of it before it is ready to pick. It is the same way with a lot of fruit. Yellow-tail may be an artist in his use of bill and claws to weave a nest, but in a garden or a fruit tree he is a mischief-maker with those same bill and claws."

SHAKES HEAD

"Too bad," said Farmer Brown's boy sadly. He shook his head.

"Indeed it is too bad. Mischievous of any kind always is too bad. I hate to think of what it would be like around here without Yellow-tails," replied the other.

"Don't think of it," said Farmer Brown's boy.

Council Committee Slashes City's Tag Days In Half; Expect Protests

Taking the bull by the horns, the legislative committee recommended that tag days in Victoria be cut from eight to four and then waited to do battle for their report at City Council meeting Tuesday.

They won the main event, but only after proving themselves sturdy scrappers in the preliminaries. Council approved there be four tag days in '51 and designated them:

Turnbull Dairy Chief

For Bad Cough, Mix This Splendid Recipe, at Home

You'll be pleasantly surprised when you make up this easily prepared mixture and try it for a distressing cough. It is no trouble to mix, and costs but a trifle, yet it can be depended upon to give quick relief.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water until dissolved. No cooking needed. (Or use corn syrup or liquid honey instead of sugar syrup.) Get a 2½ ounce bottle of Pinex from any drug-gist, put it into a 16 ounce bottle and fill it up with your syrup. The 16 ounces thus made gives you four times as much cough medicine for your money, and is a very effective relief for coughs. Keeps perfectly and tastes fine.

This splendid mixture soothes the irritated membranes, loosens the phlegm and helps to clear the air passages.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known as a soothing agent for winter coughs. Money refunded if not pleased in every way.

FOR EXTRA CONVENIENCE GET NEW, READY-TO-USE, PREPARED PINEX.

Remembrance Day, Junior Auxiliary to St. Joseph's Hospital, Women's Auxiliary to Royal Jubilee Hospital and Queen Alexandra Solarium Junior League; agreed that no service clubs be permitted tag days.

I.O.D.E. PROTEST

Ald. J. D. Hunter protested that the I.O.D.E. should be included.

Ald. Hilda Baxter of the legislative committee stated two organizations for which the I.O.D.E. would raise funds were already covered.

"You gave us this job," said Ald. Frank Mulliner, chairman. "We didn't ask for it. You asked us to cut it in half and we did."

The mayor had said earlier in the debate he wondered if the recommendations were not "too arbitrary." Ald. Percy Scurrah added there were many worthy organizations.

OBLIGATION FELT

"We felt we had an obligation to the citizens to reduce tag days," said Ald. Baxter. "We would have preferred to have only two, one in the spring and one in the fall."

Commented Ald. Waldo Skillings: "The merchants and citizens are tired of the tag days. There has been a demand for years that they be cut down."

A suggestion that the matter of designation be thrown back to the committee was termed "unfair" by Ald. Aubrey Kent, a member. Another suggestion for consolidation of organizations on tag days, came to naught when it was pointed out that organizations did not appear to favor a united appeal.

Fifteen organizations in all asked for tag days.

Attendants For Miss Gibbs Wear Gowns Of Marquisette

Gowns of cloud-like pink and blue nylon marquisette were worn by a trio of bridal attendants, who preceded Patricia Sheilagh, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Gibbs, 750 Middleton Street, when she became the bride of Herbert H. Abbott, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Abbott, 1092 Hampshire Road. The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. E. Greenhalgh.

Traditional wedding music was played in St. John's Anglican Church as the bride walked up the aisle in a wedding gown fashioned with lace bodice, net yoke, long, pointed sleeves and softly draping skirt enriched with panels of lace. She wore a coronet of fresh white hyacinth blooms and fingertip veil of silk net edged with lace. Her only jewelry was the groom's gift, an amethyst pendant and matching earrings. She carried a large bouquet of white hyacinths and gardenias. Her father gave her in marriage.

A muf of blue pebble satin, a posy of blue iris and pale pink carnations with matching floral coronet in her hair was chosen by Miss Greta Molin, maid of honor, to complement her gown. Bridesmaids Misses Vera Curtis and Mildred Turner wore bandeaux of rose pink carnations and blue hyacinths, and carried muffs of contrasting American Beauty satin trimmed with rose and blue flowers with their identically styled gowns. All attendants wore necklaces of rhinestones.

Little flower girl, Beverly Sparrow, was gowned in pink nylon marquisette trimmed with tiny blue bows, a coronet of blue iris and pink carnations, and carried a miniature muf decorated with flowers.

Gary Abbott was best man and ushers were Ronald Francis, Jack Curtis and Richard Smith. While the couple signed the register, organist Frederick Chubb played "O Perfect Love."

The new Mr. and Mrs. Abbott cut a three-tier wedding cake topped with pink freesias, at the bride's table set with bowls of pink tulips, plum blossoms and lighted candles. Assisting the newlyweds in receiving guests at the reception at 1012 Douglas Street, were Mrs. Gibbs, who wore turquoise green crepe, grey accessories and red rose bud corsage bouquet, and Mrs. Abbott in gown of bronze crepe, natural straw hat and Johanna Hill roses on corsage.

During the evening solos were sung by Mrs. H. Wilson, accompanied by Mrs. C. N. Curtis, aunt of the bride.

A brown gabardine suit with brown feather hat, cream shortie topcoat and reptile accessories in brown tones were worn by the bride for the honeymoon trip to Washington State. Her corsage was of gold and brown freesias.

Returned Worker Describes Missions Work In Japan

Women's auxiliary members attending 47th annual meeting of the British Columbia Diocesan Board, Anglican Women's Auxiliary, and their friends gathered in Memorial Hall last evening for a missionary meeting.

Bishop H. E. Sexton acted as chairman and introduced guest speaker Miss Marie Foerstal, an evangelistic worker who has spent 24 years in missionary work in Japan and is now on furlough.

She spoke of being one of three workers chosen to return to Japan after the war to resume work among the blind, sick and with the children.

Miss Foerstal also related how Japan has changed in many ways since the war.

"The people are kind and sympathetic and appreciative of missionary teaching," she said. "They are eager to learn and have adopted many western ways, especially in their dress. Gone are the kimonos and ceremonial dresses which are now only seen on special occasions."

Bobbed hair and permanents are now the rule and not the exception, Miss Foerstal said.

She explained that western civilization is making itself felt through education and that the people are being taught to think and reason for themselves.

"They have freedom of speech,

MISS MARIE FOERSTAL

freedom of religion and freedom of the press," she said.

She told of the farmers who now own their own land and gave a word picture of how every inch of ground is being cultivated for food.

"I wish there were more trained workers available for this vital work in Japan," the speaker concluded.

Mrs. R. O. Taylor, president of the diocesan board, expressed thanks of the meeting. Refreshments were served by the Evening Council.

Work Of Chancel Guild Explained

Miss M. Lettice addressed a recent meeting of Christ Church Cathedral Woman's Guild, explaining work of the Cathedral Chancel Guild, in attending to cleaning of all the appointments on the altar, changing of altar frontals, care of fair linen and decoration of the chancel and cathedral with flowers.

After services the flowers are sent to hospital patients, Miss Lettice said.

Miss K. Jaffray presided; Mrs. M. H. French reported on visits made to the Protestant Orphanage; discussion took place regarding new method of raising funds by calendar system, following report given by committee convener, Miss B. Morley, who suggested that one half a cent a day for a year be the contribution of each member.

It was announced the Deanery garden would again be available for the June garden party and Mrs. J. F. K. English reported sewing committee would meet on Friday at 10 a.m., and every other Friday thereafter.

Jordan River—Mrs. J. Poirier was chosen delegate to P.T. convention in Victoria at recent meeting of Jordan River P.T.A. Plans for a dance in Jordan River Hall, April 13, were discussed. Mesdames G. Oliver, Poirier, W. Muir, J. Young, J. Reeves and J. Elliott, will be in charge. A film projector has been ordered.

Brassieres? They aren't always what they should be, says Margaret Disher. Nor does she think much of some of the panties and girdles sold today. (Mirrorpic Photo)

Two British Women Speak Out About Their Undies

Two women fashion experts stood up before an audience of men and women in a London hotel recently, and described the trouble they have with their undies.

And both demanded that manufacturers should test new designs in underwear by getting someone to wear them for up to a year before they are put on the market. The meeting, of members of the London section of the Textile Institute, was discussing how clothing manufacturers could best meet the needs of the man—and woman—in the street.

Then Margaret Disher, 33, and Leonora Curry, 42, complained of how women suffer from bad fashion designs. Wearing a smartly tailored black costume and a primrose off-the-face hat,

Margaret Disher performed a verbal strip-tease. Apologetically, she said, "There are some things I would like to show you, but I have got them on, and men are present."

She spoke of brassieres. "I bought a bra because it had a couple of cunning-looking straps in the front. In two days the elastic had stretched and the whole thing was out of shape. I had to reinforce it with rigid tapes." Then she turned to girdles. "Mine has a zip at the side. I have to move it over my hip bones to do it up. Then I can't move it back. Consequently my right suspender is at the back instead of at the front." With the bracelets on her wrists jingling violently, she spoke of panties. "Whether they are 4s 6d rayon or 12s 6d nylon, they split at the seam after a few washings."

CLUB WOMEN'S NEWS

Chapter Chairmen—At recent meeting of Navy League Chapter, I.O.D.E., the following conveners were appointed: Mrs. H. W. Biggin, postwar; Mrs. T. C. Davies, ex-service personnel; Mrs. T. Watt, films; Miss K. Hamber, Empire and world affairs; Mrs. A. D. Whittier, work in India; Mesdames E. Ness and M. A. Douglass, child and family welfare; and Mrs. F. J. Nobbs, press. Mrs. W. Brynjolfson, educational secretary, read letters of thanks from lighthouse keepers and Central Junior High School for library books. Seven boys' sweaters were turned in by a friend of the chapter. Plans for April are a bingo party at headquarters, a silver tea at the home of Mrs. J. L. Ford and a rummage sale. A new member, Mrs. A. Edwards, was welcomed.

Guest Artists—Jeanie McGinnis, violinist, and Marjorie Gilbert, dramatics, were guest artists at recent meeting of Junior Musical Arts Society. Others on the program were Carol Small, Valerie Watkin, Bobby Harvey, Patricia Seurrah, Margaret Gilden, Sandra Forrester, Sharon Armstrong, Janie Hardie, Bruce Huxtable, Barbara Wallace, Sandra Coombe, Josephine Lister, Sylvia Gough and Patricia White.

Donation—Women's committee to Victoria Symphony voted $50 to the symphony board of directors at their recent meeting held at the home of Mrs. Edward Goodall. Plans were completed for a reception at the Crystal Gardens following the symphony concert tonight. Guests will be members of the orchestra, massed choirs, members of the board of directors, and men's and women's committees.

Special Guests—Couples Club, First Baptist Church, held their meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. Harvey, 1529 Monterey Avenue, with I. S. Day and W. A. Schade as special guests. They showed colored films on Queensland, Australia, and $12.30 was collected for the 75th anniversary of First Baptist Church. Mrs. L. Salmond gave a reading on a version of the 23rd Psalm. Mrs. Norman Duckworth sang "The Lord is My Shepherd."

Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Stan Ralph, Mr. and Mrs. Holt, Mr. and Mrs. M. Poque, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Bleakley. Next meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hilton, 871 Leslie Drive, April 3, at 8.

Spring Tea—At recent meeting of St. Mary's Parish Guild, plans were made for a spring flower tea, April 11, at the home of Mrs. E. W. Gibson, 1590 York Place.

Conveners—At recent meeting of Royal Roads Chapter, I.O.D.E., the following conveners were appointed: Mrs. J. Crowe, ex-service personnel; Mrs. J. C. F. Blowey, post war; Mrs. M. Zabel, empire and world affairs; Mrs. H. Carlisle, flower fund; Mrs. D. E. Alcorn, child and family welfare; Mrs. Blowey, films, and Mrs. Alcorn, press and publicity. Final plans were made for the municipal annual meeting dinner. Bank balance of $280.17 was reported, and $15 was voted for secondary education.

Cultural Program—Mrs. Lillian Jones, conducted the cultural program at recent meeting of Zeta Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, and Mrs. Molly Archer, gave a talk on Oriental gardens. Miss Helen McKee presided. Next meeting will be held in the board room, Douglas Hotel, on Monday.

Conveners Elected—At recent meeting of Camosun Chapter, I.O.D.E., the following conveners were elected: Mrs. E. Edwards, postwar work; Mrs. S. R. Richardson, child and family welfare; Mrs. G. Miles, ex-service personnel; Mrs. R. Campbell, work in India; Mrs. J. W. Van Norman, films; Mrs. J. R. Campbell, Empire and world affairs; Mrs.

PARENT-TEACHER NEWS

James Douglas—In conjunction with Education Week, Sir James Douglas P.T.A. held open house, when all rooms including pre-primary and library, were open for inspection. Hobby show in the auditorium featured a variety of exhibits made by pupils and parents of the school area. Refreshments were served by Mrs. K. Bloomfield, Mrs. F. Jones, and committee. Delegates to the annual B.C. P.T.A. Federation convention this month will be Mesdames E. Smith, D. Radcliff, K. Leeming, L. Moutray, J. MacCormac, and Mr. H. Whitfield. Annual spring festival will be held in the auditorium March 21. Meeting of P.T.A., tonight.

View Royal—A birthday tea to mark first anniversary of the school's opening was held Wednesday afternoon under auspices of View Royal P.T.A. Vice-president Mrs. S. Rickerson introduced Mrs. Ernest Evans, president, B.C. Parent-Teachers Federation, who opened the affair and out the cake. Mrs. J. Nelson was convener and Mrs. L. Main presided at the tea table. Grade 7 and 8 girls acted as servitors. A musical program arranged by Mrs. F. Holdridge, included numbers by Brian Atkinson, Bob Newman, Stanley Smyth, Susan Atkinson, Sharon McRae, Arlene Warren, Helen Simonson, Ann Smith and Arlene Atkinson. Charter members honored were J. H. Downard, Mrs. N. Howden, Mrs. Holdridge, Mrs. L. Kievel and R. Wensley. Other specially invited guests included Mr. and Mrs. J. F. K. English, Mr. and Mrs. J. Gough, Mayor and Mrs. Percy E. George and Mr. and Mrs. Austin Curtis.

Celebrate Charter Members' Birthday

Corsage bouquets were presented to charter members of Craigflower Women's Institute, who were celebrating their birthday's and a birthday cake was cut.

Miss Shirley Pilgrim, whose marriage took place Saturday, was presented with a gift from the Institute.

Plans were made to enter a hand-made quilt and handicrafts at Pacific National Exhibition, and $33.40 was turned into the Shower of Dimes fund.

Court whist party planned for April, and used white cotton and linen is to be collected for cancer dressing station. Films and lecture will be held March 22 meeting.

Britain Plans 'Little Armies' For Each Of 90 Boroughs Round London

LONDON (CP)—A far-reaching plan to foster keener civilian interest in the development and consolidation of Britain's expanding Territorial Forces, has been launched by the War Office.

Disclosing details of the plan, Maj.-Gen. E. O. Herbert, director of the Territorial Army and cadets, announced that 90 boroughs in London and the Metropolitan areas of the Home Counties, had been asked to set the scheme in motion.

The result of more than a year's study and preparation, its main objectives provide for:

1. Assurance that units are so distributed that servicemen can reach them conveniently and enter into their traditional life.

2. To train national servicemen suitably in their full-time service for their future part-time duties in the Territorial Army.

3. Strengthen local ties so that co-operation and understanding can be built up and common problems discussed and settled speedily.

Aimed as a spur to national pride in the reserve forces and to whip up the young man's spirit of service, the plan envisages the setting up of a "little army" within each borough. The idea will later be extended to other areas throughout the country.

66,000 ON CALL

By the time the build-up of the reserve army is completed in 1954, approximately 66,000 national servicemen will be on call within the Greater Metropolitan area. Of this force, representing one-fifth of the total for the country, about 40,000 will go into the Territorial Army and the rest into the supplementary reserve. All are required to put in 60 days' training annually during the remainder of their three and a half years in the reserve.

The scheme places special emphasis on the development of close team-work between army and civilian authorities. Towards that end a committee will be appointed in each borough to promote and advance in every way possible local co-operation and feeling of ownership of the units.

The plan also provides for establishment of "unit friends," to be drawn from interested local citizens. Their task will be to give advice and practical assistance as well as maintain liaison between the unit and the man-in-the-street.

Officers will be appointed by each territorial unit to assist in sorting out differences that may arise over a man's training duties and his job. Local firms are being invited to appoint special links of their own to keep managements in touch.

As a further step in development of closer relationships periodic area receptions are to be organized to bring together civic representatives and all ranks of the territorial units. Parades in honor of the boroughs and "at homes" at the Territorial Army centres, are also planned. "I do not underestimate the complexities and above all the human problems of a scheme of this sort," said War Secretary Strachey. "What we now need is understanding and co-operation to make it work."

Too Many Whistles

READING, Eng. (CP)—Soccer and field hockey clubs playing matches simultaneously on a local community sports ground complained of too much whistle-blowing. Their games are thrown into confusion by the medley of "tooting." Henceforth whistles of varying pitch will be used.

PUGNACIOUS PRIMITIVES

CHRISTCHURCH, N.S. (CP)—Pastor F. A. Mote, a Seventh Day Adventist missionary, said here the world's most primitive people must be the "Big Mambo" on the island of Mallicolo in the New Hebrides. "They have no tribal life and each family is an enemy of all other families."

Concierge Of Paris May Be Thing Of Past

PARIS (AP)—That centuries-old institution, the Paris concierge, may be on her way out. She takes up too much space.

Mme. Maria Bertre has worked for 35 years in the same house, a typical seven-story apartment building in a poor but respectable neighborhood. As concierge, her work calls for the combined talents of a janitor, rental agent, bill collector, bookkeeper, occasional chambermaid and auxiliary policeman.

But now for the first time in her life Mme. Bertre is worried about her job.

It's a job that has always fascinated visitors to Paris, who find it typical of French life.

NOT SO SINISTER

A lot of French novels treat the concierge as a sinister hag who spies on tenants and steams open their letters. She can easily do it if she likes. Part of her job is to deliver the mail and she often does housework for tenants. Also, her tiny apartment—the "loges"—is right next to the main entrance of the building; in old-fashioned houses anyone coming in after about 11 p.m. has to wake her up.

But no one has complained of Mme. Bertre's being too nosy. She says her trouble is just that the owners want to take over her apartment.

"You must know, M'sieu, they want to get rid of us now. These people—they're new, not the ones I know—they've been looking for trouble with me for eight or nine months."

Britain, France To Settle Medieval Dispute

LONDON (CP)—Britain and France have finally reached agreement in a dispute that goes back almost to the Middle Ages.

Representatives of the two countries and the Channel Islands signed a joint undertaking concerning fishing rights on the tiny islands of Ecrehos and Minquiers, which lie between the Channel Islands and the Normandy coast.

The bone of contention—sovereignty of the islands—remains unsettled. This is expected to be referred to the International Court of Justice at The Hague.

The agreement was signed at the British Foreign Office after months of negotiation. Before that the question of fishing rights had been in dispute for hundreds of years. Detailed pro-

Old Mounties Were Tougher

REGINA (CP)—A former member of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, F. J. Bigg of Meota, Sask., doesn't think the modern-age mountie has it when it comes to longevity.

In a letter to the R.C.M.P. quarterly, Mr. Bigg says he has observed from the magazine's obituary columns that average age reached by personnel serving in the last century was 51. For those serving after 1900, it was 61, he claims.

Mr. Bigg says he thinks the lack of "plain, sound food," lack of fresh air that used to come in caring for and riding horses and not enough sleep account for the loss in life span.

Nor does the modern breakfast of juices, cereal, toast and so on appeal to him. He had "dry hash, bread and tea. (Not butter)."

Television Brings New Slang Terms

CAMDEN, N.J. (UP)—Television is providing everyday words with new and colorful meanings.

A dog, for example, isn't a household pet, ghosts don't haunt houses and snow isn't the kind that falls in winter.

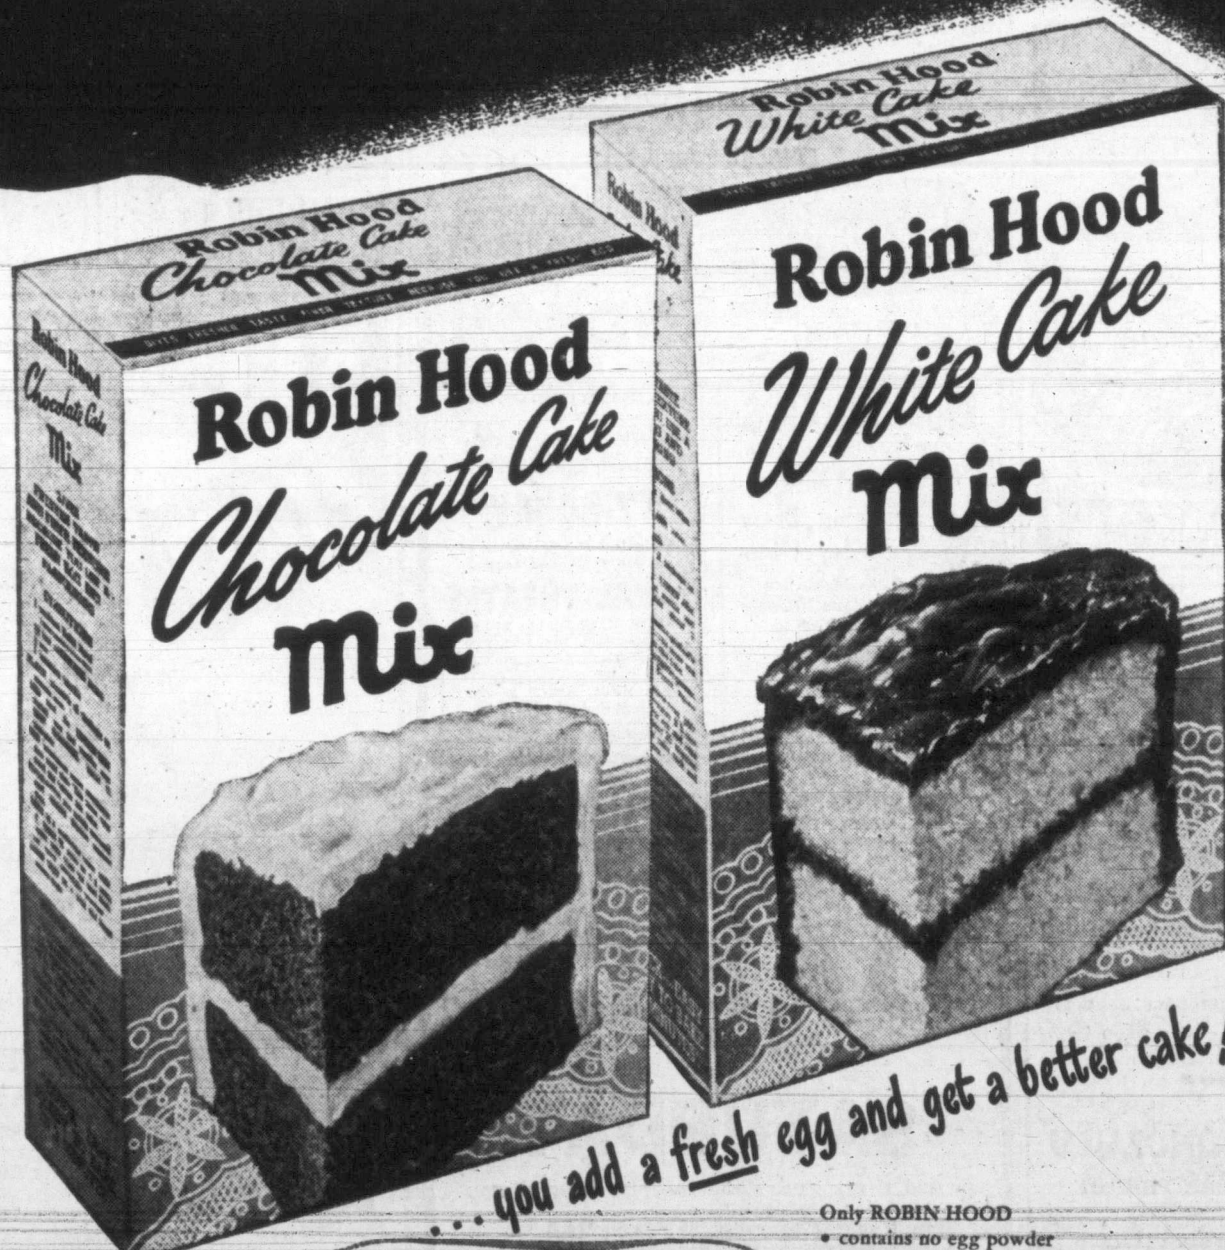

Instead, those and other terms, reports R.C.A. Victor, are part of the language of the television studio and are gaining wide acceptance outside the industry.

In the factory, a set that doesn't operate properly is a "dog." Ghosts are the secondary or reflected signals that appear on a picture tube after those that are wanted. Noise or picture fuzziness is "snow."

Just as slangy is the language of the television studio. Cans are earphones, dollies are four-wheeled carriages for cameras, a noodle is brief background music and a pipe is a telephone.

Hedy's Retirement Story Gets Ho-Hum Treatment

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

HOLLYWOOD (NEA)—Hedy Lamarr's retirement announcement is getting the ho-hum from British newsmen, too. They vow she's due in London after her Bob Hope film to costar with Rex Harrison in Somerset Maugham's "His Excellency."

Jerry Lewis is reported to have dropped $35,000 when his Hollywood camera shop folded. The comic is the enthusiastic type who goes overboard whenever he finds a new hobby. The camera shop was a hobby he thought would be big business.

Paul Henreid has had offers from a major studio but he isn't selling his controversial "For Men Only" title. It will blaze from the marquee as the title of his new independent picture now that the Motion Picture Association has okayed it.

Now it can be told: Paramount's hush-hush plot of the Helen Hayes movie, "My Son John," is about a mother who shoots her Alger Hissish son and goes on trial.

Dan Duryea won't be weeping over his machine gun if he doesn't land the gangster role in RKO's "The Racket." The riddle-em-up boy's worried about the string of cold-blooded brutes he's been playing since 1941.

"I mean, how long can you go on playing those roles?" Dan groaned. "I'd like to stretch my movie career out. I've got a family."

What would he say if a producer tossed him the role of a flossy dress designer? Tough-guy Dan stuck out his lower lip and said:

"I'd play it if the dialogue was good."

Festival Executive Expects 1,000 Entries

Plans are well ahead for second annual Greater Victoria Musical Festival May 7-11. Pictured at executive meeting at Craigdarroch, from left: Mrs. Mary Campbell, secretary; J. F. K. English,

These High-Salaried Hollywood Film Stars Pay No Income Tax; One Nets $50,000 A Year

HOLLYWOOD (CP)—Some of Hollywood's highest-paid actors have no income-tax worries. They are the movie colony's acting animals.

Unlike the millions of Americans harassed with meeting tomorrow's deadline on filing income-tax returns in the United States, the animal actors—and they're in the upper brackets—haven't given taxes a thought.

Lassie, for instance, who makes about $50,000 a year, complacently munches a filet of horse while his master huddled with an accountant in preparation for March 15.

How much does an individual animal have to pay?

That's a toughie. Most trainers have scores of beasts. The biggest outfit, the World Jungle Compound, has more than 200, ranging from elephants to squirrels. Taxes are based on the owner's total income and are not broken down to show each animal's share.

Lassie, if he were human, since he's male and single, would pay about $23,000 on his income. (That's right, Lassie's a "he.")

Billy Richards, a co-owner of the Jungle Compound, estimates his more-famous charges would be in at least the 20 per cent bracket. He said his biggest star, a chimpanzee named Tamba which died in a fire last week, was paid $1,000 a week while working and he got a lesser sum between pictures "just for eating bananas."

Here are some other examples of how highly the movie industry regards its four-footed performers: In the $600-a-week class are Jackie the Lion, Dynamite the Black Panther, Satan the Tiger and Sherry the Puma.

These salaries aren't as big as they sound when you consider overhead. Animals eat the year around but work only a few weeks. Expenses for food, quarters, transportation and veterinarians are deductible.

Lassie's trainer, Rud Weatherwax, wishes animals could claim exemptions for children. "Lassie has sired about 200 pups," he says. "Think how much that would knock off my tax bill."

English Translation Detracts From Quality Of Fine Performance Of 'Barber Of Seville'

"THE BARBER OF SEVILLE"
By Gioacchino Rossini
Count Almaviva..... Byron Steele
Dr. Bartolo, physician..... Ralph Telasco
Rosina, his ward..... Graciela Silvain
Don Basilio, music master..... W. Wilderman
Berta..... Ethel Swenson
Figaro..... Richard Torrig
Fiorillo, servant to the Count..... Mario Lelli
Bergamotte of the Guard..... Anthony Mascaro

BY AUDREY S.T.D. JOHNSON

The perennial debate as to whether or not opera should be sung in English translation, was brought to the fore, Tuesday night, when the Charles L. Wagner Company presented "The Barber of Seville" at the Royal Theatre, using an English version.

The company was more than competent and frequently rose to heights of true excellence; but the question of translation must have remained in doubt for many listeners. This reviewer feels that nothing at all was gained and that, in fact, some of the brilliance and champagne quality of the work was lost. Particularly in the "Largo al factotum" aria, which was sung magnificently by Richard Torrig and yet appeared less virtuosic than with the fluent Italian syllables.

This however, is merely a comment on the experiment and does not mean that the performance itself lacked the ingredients of success. Everything that good voices—one or two of them outstanding—lively tempo and a fine orchestra could give, this production had.

DOMINATES STAGE

A convincing Figaro is the essential thing and in Torrig the company has an invaluable asset. Here is a baritone that is rich, vibrant, powerful and flexible, coupled with a personality and appearance that is attractive and has the necessary "shine." It is significant and sufficient to remark that he dominated the stage, not alone with his stirring voice, but as Figaro should, with an aggressive vitality.

Graciela Silvain was a petite and exquisite Rosina. The coloratura of her voice is quite remarkable, trills and runs being executed with bird-like fluency. The quality is somewhat "white" and brittle, especially when she extends it to full power. At other moments it has a rare, reed-like sweetness.

Ralph Telasco and William Wilderman were excellent in the "La Calunnia" duet.

Byron Steele acts and sings with authority and an engaging sense of humor. His tenor voice is good, sonorous and clear, though not especially powerful. Or perhaps the orchestra was just a bit over-bearing at times! The character make-up left something to be desired as did the stage dressing. The latter had a quality of makeshift about it and one felt that the costumes, with the exception of Rosina's, had been done on a shoestring budget. But these are minor criticisms of a lively and musically satisfying show that was presented in good "opera bouffe" style.

Rules On How To Dress Well Without Spending Fortune

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—This one is for the ladies. It's all about Eve Arden and how to be best-dressed without spending a fortune.

The actress claims it's possible. In fact, she has done it. Her name pops up on various best-dressed lists every now and then.

"There's no reason why any woman should go broke in order to be a good dresser."

"Could a girl who earns $45 a week make the best-dressed lists?" I asked.

"I don't see why not," she replied blithely. I challenged her to lay down some rules. And here they are:

1. Don't wait for the occasion to arise before you buy a dress. If you need a dress in a hurry, you probably won't find what you want and will make a mistake.

2. Do a lot of shopping without buying. Find out what is in the stores and then you will be able to buy wisely.

3. Have confidence in your clothes. Don't buy anything you don't feel comfortable wearing.

4. Have a basic dress, either black or navy blue. You can find many ways to decorate it

5. Learn to sew.

6. Don't buy cheap clothes.

7. Don't spend too much money on evening clothes.

8. Don't splurge on hats.

9. Don't wear fussy clothes.

Musicians Call Off Radio Strike
NEW YORK (UP)—James C. Petrillo, president of the American Federation of Musicians (A.F.M.) called off a strike against major radio and television networks today after reaching a new three-year wage agreement.

About 600 staff musicians in Los Angeles, Chicago and New York had voted to strike today, but Petrillo and representatives of the networks announced Tuesday night an agreement had been reached.

Under the new contract the musicians will receive a 15 per cent wage increase, subject to federal approval, and other benefits.

IN TUNE WITH THE TIMES by Jommie Walters

SHOW BUSINESS, HOLLYWOOD STYLE, comes to Victoria tonight with a spectacle that calls for your best "bib and tucker." There'll be jewels and ermine, Kleig lights and all, for the metropolitan opening of "Tzinquan" at the Royal.

Written, directed and produced by native Indians of the Cowichan tribe, "Tzinquan" is the legend of the Thunderbird and the Killer Whale. It seems three or four centuries ago the tribe was faced with famine and hardship due to a dearth of fish. A potlatch was called and the blame laid to Jonah's nemesis—who apparently was getting hungry again. So was the tribe. With great ceremony and beating of tom-toms, the medicine men brewed a great batch and called upon the great god Thunderbird to drive the whale away. The brew must have been potent enough because the great god answered their beseechings—so the legend goes—and drove off the greedy one, leaving the tribe in peace and plenty.

It's our prediction "Tzinquan" will enjoy a great run in other centres after it leaves Victoria. All ready recordings are being made of its songs and dances which will be released to the public and radio.

Radio times and programs are furnished by stations and networks and are subject to last minute changes. The Times assumes no responsibility for inaccurate listings.

RUSSIA ACCEPTS AGENDA ON GERMAN PEACE TREATY

PARIS (Reuter)—Russia accepted at today's Big Four deputies' conference the Western version of a proposed agenda item dealing with the German peace treaty, it was learned tonight.

Andre Gromyko of Russia accepted the proposed Western version of the agenda item dealing with a German peace treaty. This is the second item of the Western agenda which reads: "Re-establishment of German unity and conclusion of a peace treaty with Germany."

Gromyko also tabled redrafts of the first and third items of the Russian agenda.

Ambassador Phillip Jessup, the American representative, said he needed time to study the new wording.

HOSPITAL HEADS HAP INSURANCE PLAN

Govt. Tightens Its Credit Laws

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Abbott announced today a tightening of federal consumer credit restrictions. The changes become effective next Monday, March 19.

He told the Commons in a surprise announcement these further restrictive steps are being taken:

1. The minimum down payment for purchase of motor cars on the instalment plan is being boosted from one-third of the cash price to one-half.
2. For all other commodities, the minimum down payment will be increased to one-third from one-fifth of the cash price.
3. In all cases, the minimum down payment now will be not less than $10. Formerly, it was $5.
4. The minimum period of credit is being reduced to 12 months from 18 months and the minimum size of instalment payments is being increased to $10 a month—or $2.50 a week—from $5 a month, or $1.25 a week previously.
5. Under what is known in the trade as a revolving credit plan, the minimum initial down payment is being increased to $10 and wherever new purchases are made under existing credits the minimum monthly instalment is being increased to $10.

Mr. Abbott said that, as a result of varied representations, the consumer-credit restrictions will not apply to the sale of books.

W.I.L. Prepares Spring Training

VANCOUVER (CP)—Spring training for the Western International League will get under way March 30, with five teams working out their kinks in California and three in the northwest.

Remaining close to home are Spokane, Vancouver and Wenatchee. Spokane will train at Lewiston, Idaho; Vancouver at Penticton, B.C., and Wenatchee probably at Okak, Wash.

Camps in the south will be Yakima at Healdsburg, Tacoma at Waco, Victoria at Santa Rosa, Tri-City at Lindsay, and Salem at Lodi, all in California.

The league season opens April 20.

RUSS RADIO AGAIN MAKES 'REVOLT' PLEA

LONDON (Reuter)—A mystery voice came over European radio channels today for the second day running with a Russian-language appeal to all Russians to revolt against "the criminal Stalin clique."

The high-pitched drone of powerful jamming stations interrupted the broadcast.

The station, apparently situated somewhere in Central Europe, was picked up by Reuter's monitors for the first time yesterday.

The broadcaster today indicated an anti-Stalin movement is under way inside Russia.

Scattered sentences picked up between bursts of jamming included:

"The National Labor Institute in Moscow appeals to the people of Russia to carry out a people's national revolution... remember your duty to your country... accept the first battle in the construction of the revolutionary headquarters..."

Comes To Terms

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—The big independent newspaper La Nacion made a financial settlement with the pro-government news vendors' union today in an apparent effort to avoid the fate of the other independent, La Prensa, closed 48 days ago by a boycott.

Rescue Bailed

GATESHEAD, Eng. (Reuter)—Seven men trapped in a mine near here got within two feet of freedom today when a fall of sludge thickened the barrier to eight feet.

Hampered by water and wet clay, rescue workers strove desperately to reach the men, entombed since yesterday in the small South Birtley colliery.

Violent Earth Shock Behind 'Iron Curtain' Believed Caused By A-Bomb

LONDON (AP)—Millions of persons in northern Europe were terrified today by a violent shuddering of the earth's crust which some thought might have been caused by an atomic-sized explosion inside eastern Germany.

The tremor, one of the most severe ever recorded in Germany, was followed in some sections by a giant blast of wind. The shock and wind rattled windows, shook down war ruins, and tossed pictures off the walls of many homes. No extensive damage was reported.

Seismologists speculated the epicenter was either in the Elbe Mountains of West Germany or in Thuringia, in the eastern zone of Soviet occupied Germany.

The terrestrial convulsion, which lasted from five to six seconds with "echoes" of 15 minutes duration, was felt in varying degrees in a wide arc including Belgium, Holland, northern and eastern France, Denmark and Sweden.

In New York Rev. Joseph Lynch, director of the Fordham University Observatory, said the estimated location of the centre definitely indicated an earthquake of the "resettlement" pattern common to certain areas.

Professor Friedrich Decker, director of the Bonn, Germany, Observatory, said the atomic explanation had not been entirely eliminated, but the western scientists trying to run down the origin and cause of the shock were handicapped for lack of definite information from behind the Iron Curtain.

Earth tremors are fairly frequent in the Elbe Mountains.

By telephone, Professor Friedrich Gericke of the Soviet-controlled Earthquake Research Institute at Jena in East Germany said the quake was one of the strangest ever registered there. But he ruled out an explosion.

In Bonn, hundreds of persons telephoned newspaper offices to ask if there had been an atomic explosion.

Several war ruins in Cologne collapsed and many residents in nearby Leverkusen fled to an air raid shelter.

The quake was recorded in Germany as between 9.46 and 9.47 a.m. This corresponded roughly with the time recorded in Brussels.

Huge seas pounded the south coast of England and the coast of France during the night and today as ships raced for shelter during one of the wildest 24 hours of the European winter.

Ratepayers Group Also Protests

The B.C. Hospitals' Association today protested to the provincial cabinet the introduction of co-insurance in the Hospital Insurance Service.

At the same time new protests against increased B.C. hospital insurance premiums appeared today to be approaching open revolt on Vancouver Island.

A resolution calling for non-payment has been prepared by the executive of the North Oyster Ratepayers' Association for presentation to a general meeting March 29. The resolution also will be submitted to a meeting of the Vancouver Island Ratepayers' Association, scheduled for Nanaimo Saturday.

Names In-Laws As Atom Plotters

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Ruth Greenglass today named her sister-in-law and brother-in-law, Ethel and Julius Rosenberg, as plotters who sought to feed atom bomb secrets to Russia.

Soviet Aid At Parallel Rumored

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—The Chinese Nationalist Defence Ministry today asserted Russia might give the Chinese Reds air and naval support in Korea to hold at the 38th parallel.

Red Army Flees North Before U.N.

TOKYO (CP)—Seoul changed hands for the fourth time in nine months today when South Korean troops swept unopposed into the battered ghost city and proudly raised their Republican's flag over the capital building.

The capture of the main political prize in Korea was part of the Allies' bloodless drive toward the 38th Parallel, which won at least 15 miles in the last 48 hours with hardly a Chinese or North Korean being sighted.

The Allied advance was general all along the front.

Apart from the re-entry into Seoul, the most spectacular advance was made on the central front by the American 1st Cavalry Division, which drove northwest of the key stronghold of Hongchon and reached a point 18 miles from the 38th parallel, meeting no resistance.

Thirty-six tanks spearheaded the 1st Cavalry thrust of four miles to a point north of Hongchon, which is 55 air miles east of Seoul.

War Crisis At A Glance

KOREA—Seoul, South Korean capital, changed hands again as South Korean troops swept into the city. The Allies' almost bloodless drive toward the 38th Parallel continued and was general all along the front. The U.S. First Cavalry Division drove northwest of the key stronghold of Hongchon and 18 miles from the parallel.

LONDON—A strange earth convulsion of atomic proportions frightened part of the European continent. It was believed to have come from behind the "Iron Curtain," possibly in eastern Germany.

PARIS—The Western version of a proposed agenda dealing with the German peace treaty was declared accepted by Russia.
